West Virginia Seen Key For Kennedy Plan

Tired Candidate's Brother Addresses 1,000 At Weirton

WEIRTON — Sen. John F. Kennedy will be the Democratic nominee and the next president if he wins the West Virginia primary May 10, a cheering crowd of over 1,000 was told Sunday night.

Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy, younger brother of the Massachusetts senator, voiced hope and confidence that Sen. Kennedy will receive a favorable vote in the Mountaineer State.

He spoke at the fifth anniversary dinner of the Weirtonian Lodge of Italian Sons & Daughters of America in Weirton Community Center.

Sen. Kennedy, turning into the home stretch of his three - week campaign for the primary, appeared nearly exhausted from handshaking and speaking in West Virginia cities.

Pointing out that he had "lost his voice in the hollows of West Virginia," he spoke only briefly and commented that: "Anyone who seeks the presidential nomination should expect a long and rocky road."

His younger brother, pinch-hitting, indicated confidence in Sen. Kennedy's chances in the primary in speaking before the largest dinner crowd of any campaign activity in the Northern Panhandle.

Sen. Kennedy, outwardly weary from intense campaigning that included an afternoon session in Parkersburg, left for Washington immediately after the Weirton appearance. He will return Tuesday to Bluefield and appear on a televised debate Wednesday in Charleston with Sen. Hubert H.

State Teamster Head Endorses Humphrey

CHARLESTON (AP) — The head of West Virginia's Teamsters Sunday night endorsed Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn) in next week's presidential primary.

Kennedy's forces were jubilant.

"I'm sure the people of West Virginia are not going to let Jimmy Hoffa (Teamsters president) determine who should be the Democratic nominee for president," grinned Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass), unable to hide what appeared to be genuine delight.

"I am glad to be opposed by Hoffa, because I regard him as wholly unfit to head a powerful organization in the United States," Kennedy added.

"I am also sure that the rank and file members of the Teamsters and all other labor unions will not be dictated to by orders emanating from Jimmy Hoffa."

Humphrey was in Washington for a breather before tackling the last week of campaigning before the do-or-die May 10 primary.

He said simply: "I am always pleased when I get the help of honest working people."

He added that he had asked for no help from the national Teamsters Union, on tenterhooks with the courts and in Congress.

Teamsters' headquarters in Washington said it had endorsed no candidate for the Democratic nomination for President.

The West Virginia announcement was made by E. A. Carter, ironfisted president of the State Council of the Teamsters. The council covers five locals and represents about 7,000 union members.

Clashes Continue In Jittery Turkey

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP)—Thousands of youths clashed with Turkish troops in Istanbul today as foreign ministers of the Atlantic Alliance assembled for a last look at the West's strategy for the summit conference.

Shouting "Freedom, Freedom!" the crowd strained against a line of soldiers guarding the broad plaza within sight of the Istanbul City Hall, where members of the NATO Council of Foreign Ministers were gathering for their meeting.

The soldiers pushed the demonstrators back with the butts of their rifles. Suddenly the crowd broke and scattered into several small side streets. Officials and newsmen on hand for the NATO session watched the clash from the windows of the City hall.

There was no shooting, although Premier Adnan Menderes had warned Sunday that more anti-government demonstrations would not be tolerated, and a government announcement said the army had been ordered to fire on demonstrators if necessary to disperse them.

Neither Menderes nor President Celal Bayar were on hand at the opening NATO session to welcome the ministers, presumably because they were busy with the local crisis.

Already under martial law after student demonstrations against Menderes last week, Istanbul was

West's Foreign Ministers Set Disarmament Policies

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP)—Foreign ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, meeting within the confines of a city under martial law, today endorsed Western proposals on disarmament to be put to the Soviet Union at the summit.

As the ministers convened, thousands of Turks, most of them university students, clashed with soldiers within sight of the conference building, Istanbul's modernistic City Hall, in a new demonstration against Premier Adnan Menderes' government.

There were apparently only minor casualties. Soldiers used rifle butts to herd the students back and some bared bayonets. The demonstrators were scattered into side streets.

U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter read to the conference a special message from President Eisenhower warning that the Western Big Three meeting with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, opening in Paris May 16, probably will not produce any quick or spectacular results.

Eisenhower cautioned against hoping for too much. He said the Paris meeting is only one more "in what may prove a long succession of diplomatic exchanges

Dies In Gas Chamber

Chessman Pays With Life After 12-Year Battle Fails

MARLON BRANDO, famed actor, spoke to the anti-capital punishment demonstrators outside the gates of San Quentin prison late yesterday in one of the last-minute moves in an effort to save Caryl Chessman from the gas chamber. (UPI Telephoto)

Long Battle From Prison Finally Ends

Gas Chamber Takes Life Of Man Known Throughout World

Thus failed a 12-year struggle to escape execution—a struggle in which a smalltime thief and strongarm robber developed into the most celebrated convict of modern times.

First arrested at the age of 16, he died at 38, having spent more than 20 years in prisons.

Chessman died under a double conviction of kidnaping for robbery with bodily harm, the official legal description of perverted sex attacks on two women in Los Angeles lovers' lanes in January 1948. He denied the crimes.

Nine times his death date was set; eight times he thwarted it.

Seven times the courts granted stays to permit new appeals. The eighth time Gov. Edmund G. Brown issued a reprieve to avoid hostile demonstrations against President Eisenhower in Latin America and to push an abortive effort to abolish capital punishment in California.

The persistence and brilliancy of the campaign of appeals which Chessman conducted from his cell in death row made his name a household word around the world.

In prison he wrote four books. One of them, "Cell 2455, Death Row," became a best - seller in many languages. The royalties financed his appeals.

Step by step, though state and federal courts, his chief argument was that his trial transcript was incorrect because a dead reporter's notes were transcribed by another man.

In the end, he had succeeded in shifting public attention away from his crimes to his own personality and the larger issue of capital punishment.

Here Are Chessman's Nine Dates With Death

1. March 28, 1952, stayed Feb. 29.
2. June 27, 1952, stayed June 23.
3. May 14, 1954, stayed May 13, 16 hours before execution.
4. July 30, 1954, stayed July 29.
5. Jan. 14, 1955, stayed Jan. 11.
6. July 15, 1955, stayed July 6.
7. Oct. 23, 1959, stayed Oct. 21.
8. Feb. 19, 1960, sixty-day reprieve by governor 10 hours before execution.

Ohio's Vote Slated To Be Under 20%

Brown Points To But Two State Contests On Primary Ballots

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Fewer than 20 per cent of the Ohioans who could vote if they would bestir themselves a bit will be choosing November's nominees Tuesday and electing national convention delegates.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown's estimate of a total vote of 1¼ million in the Ohio primary elections, he says, represents only a small fraction of the 6½ million potential voters — qualified residents over 21.

The fact that there are only two contests — one in each party — on the state ballots probably accounts for much of the voter apathy toward the elections.

The Democrats have a four-way contest for the party's nomination for state auditor. Candidates are John A. Christopher Jr. of Cleveland, James D. Ferguson of Columbus, Charles H. Hubbell of Cleveland and W. T. McCort of St. Clairsville.

Ferguson is a son of State Treasurer Joseph T. Ferguson and McCort is Belmont County auditor. The real race generally is conceded to be between Ferguson and McCort.

The Republicans have a five - candidate race for the party's nomination for the unexpired Supreme Court term of the late Judge James Garfield Stewart of Cincinnati.

That race features the political comeback attempt of former Gov. C. William O'Neill. He has formidable opposition in Willard D. Campbell of Columbus and Judge Elizabeth Bell Winter of the Medina Municipal Court, who have been waging active campaigns.

The others are newcomers to the state political scene, Paul W. Brown of Youngstown and Richard Murray Stewart of Akron.

What little interest has developed in the primaries has centered on the contest between Gov. Michael V. DiSalle and Cuyahoga County Democratic Chairman Ray T. Miller for 29 of Ohio's 64 votes at the Democratic national convention.

DiSalle, bidding for the favorite-son role, is assured of 35 delegate votes without opposition. He is pledged to support the presidential candidacy of Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts so long as Kennedy stands a chance of nomination.

Miller is supporting Cuyahoga County Engineer Albert S. Porter for the favorite-son role. Any Porter delegates elected also would be pledged to Kennedy.

The Democrats will elect 36 delegates statewide, each with one-half vote. DiSalle has a full slate entered. Porter has fielded only a partial statewide slate of 14.

In addition, each of Ohio's 23 congressional districts will elect two full-vote delegates. DiSalle has a full slate of delegates in each district. Porter has a full slate in each of seven districts and a half-slate of one in each of eight other districts. Porter has no candi-

Cool Weather Could Reduce County's Vote

152 Polling Places Throughout County Await Primaries

A forecast of cloudy, cool weather Tuesday may cut into the turnout of about 14,500 expected at the polls in Columbiana County for the primary elections.

Although bright, sunny skies are expected today, the unco-operative Ohio weatherman said skies will be overcast and the temperature will be lower for the trek to the polls tomorrow.

Weather always is a factor on Election Day and a steady, slow drizzle can be a major deterrent to voting.

The 152 polling places throughout Columbiana County will open at 7:30 a. m. and close at 7:30 p. m. Daylight Saving Time, which means 6:30 a. m. to 6:30 p. m., official state time.

Each party will nominate two for state representative, two for county commissioner and one each for sheriff, recorder, probate judge, clerk of courts, prosecuting attorney, treasurer, engineer and coroner.

The county will have a voice in picking nominees for 18th District congressman and state senator from the 20th-22nd District, as well as delegates and alternates to the Republican and Democratic National Conventions.

Ten tax levies will be acted upon, including three for support of East Liverpool schools.

Meanwhile, the Election Board issued a list of polling places that will be used tomorrow in the East Liverpool district. Most locations are unchanged from the general

Walkout Fails To Cut Area's Supply Of Gas

Gas service continued normally today for homes in Eastern Ohio and Western Pennsylvania and northern West Virginia despite a strike of some 600 union employes of the suppliers that started at midnight Saturday.

Walkouts by workers in the East Liverpool and Steubenville divisions of the Ohio Valley Gas Co. affected 30,000 customers in parts of three counties. In both cities, the workers are members of the United Mine Workers, District 50.

Thirty-seven employes in East Liverpool are idled. They are members of Local 12656, UMW. At Steubenville, 52 members of UMW local 12319 walked off the job.

W. F. Smiley, information director of Ohio Valley, said in a statement issued at Steubenville that "it is obvious the company cannot provide its usual service" because of the strike. It will not be able to respond to routine service calls, but it expects the union will co-operate in handling emergencies, Smiley said. Office-workers are not involved.

On strike are outside workers, such as meter readers, inspectors, and maintenance and construction workers serving Weirton, Wellsburg, Chester and Newell.

$15,000 Loss Estimated For Midland Blaze

Cigarette In Trash Seen Cause Behind Main Street Fire

A fire which started in a stairway caused damage estimated at $15,000 Saturday afternoon in two adjoining brick buildings at 4th St. and Midland Ave., Midland.

No one was injured. The loss was estimated by Chief Vincent D'Itri, who said it includes a total loss in rear apartments over Muzzy's Bar and some damage to the upstairs apartment in the adjoining building near Railroad Ave. There was no damage to the bar or store room.

He said the fire may have started from a lighted cigarette in trash under the wooden stairway between the two buildings.

Mrs. Roy Viera, whose family lives in the lower rear apartment, said a neighbor ran to her home and told her to get her family out because the place was on fire.

Midland volunteer fire department No. 1 received the alarm at 3:44 and responded with its aerial and pumper trucks. Midland Heights volunteer fire company No. 2 was called 6 minutes later to assist with its pumper. Some 25 men in all responded.

D'Itri reported the fire under control in a half hour. Company No 1's trucks returned to the station at 4:48 and Company No. 2

$500,000 Loss Looms In Canton Hotel Fire

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — The Drake Hotel in downtown Canton was gutted by fire Sunday night, and unofficial estimates were that the loss would amount to at least half a million dollars.

Tenants were removed safely from the 127-room hotel, which is about 80 years old. The hotel was about half full.

More than 80 firemen and every available piece of equipment was in action in the spectacular blaze. Flames broke through the roof at one point and shot into the sky above the four-story brick veneer building.

A crowd estimated at 5,000 to 6,000 gathered to watch as flames reduced the building to a shell.

One fireman, Jack Meister, was injured when a hose coupling broke. He was sent to Mercy Hospital.

Salineville Postmaster Given Senate Approval

SALINEVILLE — Clarence J. Loch of West End, acting postmaster since 1955, has been confirmed officially by the Senate as postmaster, an appointment by President Dwight Eisenhower.

Loch, 54, with the postal department for 36 years, received a congratulatory telegram Saturday from Sen. Stephen Young, notifying him of the confirmation. Loch has served as acting postmaster for 5 years, succeeding Mike Mulhearn, who retired.

Born and raised here, Mr. Loch became a substitute carrier in 1924 and a regular carrier in 1925. He is married and has three daughters and a son.

In Both Hemispheres

U.S. Takes Verbal Beating In May Day Observances

By The Associated Press

The United States was blasted in both hemispheres as millions of workers celebrated and Communists paraded their armed might on May Day.

Cuba's Prime Minister Fidel Castro proclaimed "our country or death" in an angry 3½ hour harangue to between 250,000 and 500,000 shouting Cubans who turned a May Day rally into an anti-United States demonstration. The crowd was far below the 1½ million the Castro regime had hoped to bring out.

Tokyo demonstrators hanged President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi in effigy and blanketed the capital with placards denouncing ratification of the new U. S. - Japan security treaty.

On both sides of the Iron Curtain, parades, rallies and speeches marked the worker's holiday established 61 years ago by the International Socialist Congress. The United States celebrates on the first Monday in September.

Marching troops, guns and rockets were the center attraction in Moscow, where Premier Nikita Khrushchev and other Soviet leaders reviewed the mammoth parade. Thousands of Muscovites

Liquor Agents Nab 16 In Raids At Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP) — State liquor agents in a series of rapid raids smashed into seven allegedly illegal drinking and gambling places Sunday. Sixteen persons were arrested.

Swinging sledge hammers and axes, the 30 agents smashed bars and illegal stocks of liquor, splintered mirrors, demolished gambling equipment and left the seven places in shambles.

John L. Kocevar, rated a top investigator in the Liquor Department, and Henry K. Williams of Columbus, former FBI agent now assistant state liquor enforcement chief, led the raids.

All the places hit were on the East Side.

Kennedy

Although the primary does not bind the state's delegates to the Democratic National Convention, the two candidates said at the beginning that if they could not win in West Virginia, they could not expect a strong showing at the convention in July.

Ted Kennedy explained amidst sporadic applause that "anyone not willing to make his position known should have no right to be a candidate; he should be willing to put his neck on the block like my brother Jack has," in referring to Sen. Kennedy's "get out and meet the people" campaign.

"Jack has talked to people, visited coal mines and understands the problems in West Virginia," the youthful Kennedy said. He declared confidence that Sen. Kennedy will "get a ringing endorsement" in the primary.

"I am convinced and hopeful that West Virginia will contribute to the enthusiastic response," Ted Kennedy declared after mentioning the Kennedy victories in Arizona and Pennsylvania.

He urged that West Virginians "continue the Kennedy trend that began in 1947." He added that "I believe here the people will join the tradition and give Jack a tremendous vote of confidence."

One of the most publicized issues of Kennedy's campaign—his Roman Catholic religion—was referred to several times during speeches by ISDA officers and state officials.

The national president of the organization for Americans of Italian descent and vintage, Atty. Ruggero J. Aldisert, hit hard at the theme of "all men are created equal" in defending Sen. Kennedy's religion.

He said Sen. Kennedy is "a champion of moral right and political freedom" and said the senator's speech last week before the newspaper editors of America "is enshrined in life as an expression of honor and candor."

He also blasted television for stories and plays involving Italian thugs. His statement that "the hoodlums at Apalachian do not represent the Italians in America" drew long applause and noisy cheers from the audience.

Sen. Jennings Randolph of West Virginia paid tribute to Italians in general. Referring to Sen. Kennedy, he said: "The genius of legislative achievement is in the heart of this man."

Other featured speakers included Mike Sinicropi, Weirtonian Lodge president, and Atty. Ralph Pryor, Brooke County prosecutor, who introduced Sen. Kennedy. The welcome was given by Mayor David Frew of Weirton.

Mayor Frew presented Sen. Kennedy with a replica of the key to Constitution Hall in Philadelphia made by Weirton Steel Co. The assistant attorney general represented Wally Barron, who heads the state office.

The Weirtonians honored Romie Castelli of Weir-Cove Moving and Storage Co. as its outstanding member in 1960 for boosting the progress of Weirton, humanitarian ideals and backing sports.

Long lines formed following the program as Sen. Kennedy took time to shake hands and sign autographs.

Guests introduced by Toastmaster Lou Serra included Hulette C. Smith, Democratic state executive committee chairman; James Ford, assistant vice president, and John A. Jones, director of public relations, both of Weirton Steel Co., and Dr. Alfred A. Grilli, national vice president of the ISDA.

Others introduced included Judges J. J. P. O'Brien and J. Harold Brennan of the 1st Judicial Circuit, Miss Callie Tsapis, member of the House of Delegates from Hancock County, Prosecuting Atty. Frank A. Pietranton, Weirton City solicitor Floyd Tarr, Sen. Herbert Stewart, clerk of county court, Joseph H. Manypenny, New Cumberland constable, Squire John D. Herron and Dick Wright of Chester, veteran Democratic leader.

Sinicropi was general chairman of the banquet. Co-chairmen were Nick Colesante and John Liberto.

dates at all in the other eight districts.

That means that DiSalle is certain of 22 half-vote delegates from the state at large and 24 district delegates for a total of 35.

The Republicans will send only 56 delegates to their national convention — 10 elected at large and 46 from the congressional districts. Only the delegate candidacy of former U.S. Sen. George H. Bender, pledged to himself, keeps the entire delegation from going Vice President Richard M. Nixon by default.

Also in congressional districts, voters will be making other important choices in selecting nominees to succeed one congressman who has died and three others — all Republicans—who did not seek re-election. In addition, five Democratic congressmen face opposition for renomination.

Tuesday's elections also will produce nominees for the 24 seats at stake this year in the Ohio Senate, nominees for all seats in the Ohio House and nominees for appellate court judges plus a host of nominees for the county offices of commissioner, prosecutor, clerk of courts, sheriff, recorder, treasurer, engineer, coroner, probate judge in most counties and Common Pleas Court judge in some.

Records in the office of the secretary of state show there are 1,952 names on the Democratic ballots in Ohio's 88 counties and 1,815 on the Republican ballots. Various political subdivisions are voting also on 187 tax levies, 66 miscellaneous issues and 55 bond issues totaling 52 million dollars.

May Day

applauded the display, but it contained none of the terrifying new weapons Khrushchev talked about in a speech to the Supreme Soviet last January.

Communist East Germany's 110,000-man army marched through East Berlin in a parade branded by the Western Big three as "a threat to public order." Communist chief Walter Ulbricht and other East German leaders looked on in front of a huge sign proclaiming "West Berlin will be a free demilitarized city."

Across the city line, Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin defied the Soviet threat to the city in a speech before 700,000 cheering followers and called on the Western Allies to remain until Germany is reunited.

About three million Chinese jammed Peiping for a giant May Day carnival that Radio Peiping hailed as the liveliest in the city's history.

Pope John XXIII broadcast from the Vatican a sharp rebuke of atheistic communism and called on workers to emulate St. Joseph, the carpenter of Nazareth. The pontiff did not mention communism by name, but he spoke of "mistaken ideologies that on one hand exalt uncurbed liberties and on the other suppression of personality."

PARTY INTEGRITY

The usual method for those who seek political office is to render service to their Party, Community, or economic group. Leadership should be bestowed upon those who have earned it, rather than upon some friend, relative or neighbor.

Important too, is the stability of such person who should be independent, mature, and responsible. Party leaders at times get out of bounds by sponsoring unknown candidates of various hued backgrounds.

We urge the election to office of proven forthright Democrats, and Larry Finlay especially. Mr. Finlay's only fault is that he controls his own mind, and does not fawn at the whim and fancy of a few.

New Look At Old Problem

High on the list of activities of the new advisory board of the Columbiana County Welfare Department will be a survey of the County Home and the possibility of placing it under the supervision of the Welfare Department.

A thorough study of the home and of the factors involved in such a transfer should be undertaken if there is any chance of improving the care of the aged at the institution.

The new advisory unit is comprised of the members of the County Board of Visitors who inspected the county's public institutions in the past year in an active and objective program.

The same approach to the problem of the County Home could provide a much needed recommendation on what can be done to give better facilities and care for the elderly citizens who now reside there or will in years to come.

Whether the home would be best suited for the jurisdiction of the Welfare Department — as it is in Mahoning County — will have to be determined.

However, appointment by the commissioners of the advisory unit should assure the public that the county's Welfare Department will receive assistance and objective advice of an independent agency and that the County Home, a perennial problem for the county government, will be given a new evaluation in line with possible improvements.

No One Wants To Knock Civil Defense

In New York state this year, three bills to provide mandatory fall-out shelters were killed, though they had the strong support of Gov. Rockefeller. It was a typical dead-end result for a project that had been pushed with typical civil defense earnestness.

Another typical dead-end result will occur Tuesday when the seventh annual civil defense exercise begins. No one wants to knock civil defense, not even outspoken Sen. Stephen M. Young of Ohio, who describes it as "subaverage planners drawing big salaries at taxpayers' expense to operate this superannuated bureaucratic monstrosity." Sen. Young knows how unpleasant it would be to eat such words if war occurred and everybody clamored for civil defense.

But it wouldn't necessarily be civil defense as it has been known up to this time. That is the trouble. No one has come up with a credible policy.

At first, urban populations were going to be ordered to scatter. That was demonstrably impossible when even a 5 p.m. traffic jam on an ordinary day may take two hours to clear up. The next idea was to put everybody into deep shelters, which is not only against the psychological grain of the human animal but a physical impossibility, even at the risk of national bankruptcy.

The newest idea is to shoot the works on antimissile systems, to blunt the edge of attack. But that again is short of credibility at the present time because no one can prove a missile system could do the job.

That is why nearly everybody feels skeptical about civil defense. It's because nearly everybody has decided that the planners of civil defense, though they may not be as bad as Sen. Young says they are, do not have a really clear idea of what they are doing, or of what they want other people to be doing, and wouldn't have any clearer idea if they were doing the job for real, instead of for exercise.

Federal vs. Local Education Bid

Exception was taken to approval of federal aid to education in a speech before one convention session of the National School Boards Assn. This is becoming a bedraggled, distorted and misrepresented issue in which things rarely are called by their right names.

What was espoused in the school board convention was federal grants to schools in poor states that cannot support decent standards of education. This is not federal aid to education in the usual sense. It is an educational relief program.

The federal aid bogey has a fixed characteristic: Federal control. Without control, the bogey may turn benign.

Moreover, people who say they are opposed unalterably to federal aid to education imply they are in favor of local aid. They should be made to spell this out. What kind of local aid do they favor and in what proportions? Many discussions would end right there.

Not everybody opposing federal aid to education is in favor of local aid. Some are inveighing against federal aid only to cloak their opposition to any aid at all.

Thus, every discussion of this subject should begin with a moment of truth. All who are opposed to helping schools should drop out of the discussion. There is nothing for them to discuss. They are against federal aid; they are against local aid; they are against education.

A Case At Point

At issue this time are locomotives for use by the Army in the Panama Canal Zone. Low bidder for the order was the Japanese firm Mitsubishi on a figure of $3,829,900. This was approximately $900,000 lower than that of the Plymouth (Ohio) Locomotive Co., the lowest American bidder.

The Ohio firm challenged the bid and awarding of the contract has been delayed pending a final decision.

No one is more concerned with the "Buy At Home" and "Buy American" phases of the industrial picture than pottery-minded communities which have been gouged by foreign competition. And there is no question for whom such communities will be pulling in the locomotive case.

But regardless of the final outcome, the locomotive contract squabble again points up the need for a continued aggressive search for new markets and for a greater diversification of products where possible by hard-hit American concerns.

The cheap labor enjoyed by foreign manufacturers always will be a tough nut to crack. Here and there appear some glimmers of hope for protective action that would benefit American industry. But over all the perplexing problem still seems destined to remain in the laps of the American manufacturer for action on an individual level.

The B's Have It

As all Republicans planning to vote in their party's primary election know, there is a touchy issue over delegates-at-large to the party's national convention in Chicago next July.

There are 11 candidates for delegate-at-large, but only 10 delegates-at-large will go to the convention. Ten of the 11 are pledged to Richard M. Nixon. The 11th, who put in his name because he was miffed by being left off the delegate-at-large list, is pledged to himself.

There is an oddity about this delegate-at-large squabble that many Ohio Republicans may notice when they mark in their X's for the 10 candidates of their choice.

Of the 10 pledged to Nixon, six have names that begin with B—Ray C. Bliss, John W. Bricker, Katharine Kennedy Brown, Clarence Brown, Ted W. Brown and Courtney Burton.

Oh yes, the 11th delegate-at-large candidate—the one pledged to himself—the one who ran because he was miffed over being left off the list—a busy B too—George Bender. That makes 7 out of 11 for the B's an all-time record of some kind in politics.

Great Britain, since the year of 1480, has engaged in an astounding total of 79 wars—the world's record!

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

The de Gaulle welcome parades gave folks a rare spectacle of a celebrity with a flawless record as a farsighted, brave, dedicated man who never weakened in the clutches, called the turns as he saw them and had the patience to wait for his merit badge.

Confetti and ticker tape welcomes have been many but seldom has the hero of one seemed more able to "take 'em or leave 'em alone."

Golfers and channel swimmers have been in them but no golf star ever played the "Chips-Are-Down" golf course under rougher conditions with greater courage. And Charlie is one of few swimmers who made the channel against the tide without grease, vaseline, and a rowboat directly behind.

Lindbergh was the first man to fly New York to Paris alone in a crate but the other Charlie took off in one of the great storms of history riding a broomstick and made it a roundtrip, with Roosevelt and Churchill throwing sand into his engine and tossing sarastic wisecracks instead of confetti at him.

Tennis champs have won ticker tape welcome but De Gaulle did it without a racquet and with the ball in possession of the players on another court. Baseball celebrities have marched up Broadway but name one who went a longer route, got so little support and was so often spiked by his own team.

Famous generals have been buried in ticker tape before but few who fought so many engagements alone under shellfire from his own side.

We have seen kings, queens, princes, princesses and diplomats get the ticker-tape routine but somehow De Gaulle, a stalwart, uncompromising, resolute, never-say-die figure of rare dignity seemed to make them seem minor leaguers for size, quality and nobility of manner.

A first impulse waiting for Charlie is to think "The iceman cometh," but you get his true greatness fast. He is close to the No. 1 Man in the Mister Patience and Fortitude Olympics. To the question: "Were you there, Charlie?" he can always answer, "Yes, and at times I felt awfully alone."

AMERICAN MALES are overweight, scientists say. Maybe it's from carrying pockets full of forms, vacation maps, new car literature, credit cards, lottery tickets and dietary charts.

Snake in Bronx zoo has hiccups. What of it? We wouldn't trust one without hiccups any further than a hiccupper.

Pittsburgh scientists say you shouldn't worry over baldness if your hair is getting thin. Our bet is that the scientists are using every tonic in the house and haven't any hair to speak of.

The chameleon not only has the ability to change its color rapidly to match its surroundings, but can also roll its eyes independently. Because of this, it can keep one eye on its food and the other on the surrounding scenery.

Modern Tragedy

The Course Set By Sen. Johnson

By Jay G. Hayden

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, almost certainly first or second top runner for Democratic presidential nomination at opening of the convention of that party, has set a course that may upset many contesting applecarts.

In marked contrast to all his Democratic rivals, each vying to edge more than the other in direction of leftist doles for all voter segments of the population—old age pensioners, farmers, government payrollers or what-not—Sen. Johnson is counseling progress down the middle of the road. He does not want the support, he says, of the extremes on either side—"neither from the left nor right."

Commenting on the fight of left-wing Democratic senators against his leadership on the ground that he was too much inclined to compromise, Sen. Johnson said, "any jackass can kick down a barn. It takes a carpenter to build one."

MOST SIGNIFICANT of all was an extemporaneous comment made after his airplane had been delayed in landing for 40 minutes, over Cheyenne, Wyo., due to a thick fog. He said:

"If we were Republicans we would have turned back and said it couldn't be done. If we were red-hots, super-dupers, odd balls, we would have gone in and crashed. But being forward looking, progressive Democrats we decided to take a reading and see what would come out of it—and here we are."

All of these remarks were made in course of a tour through three Western states, Wyoming, Colorado and Utah. For a year past, Sen. Johnson has been trying to prove that his state of Texas is more West than South, thereby aiming to divorce himself from Dixiecratism. On that point he said at Salt Lake:

"We in Texas, as well as you in Utah and all your neighboring states, are distant people. We live far from Washington, far from the centers of finance and population and it is not difficult for us to be forgotten, or even occasionally neglected, in those distant centers."

And speaking particularly as Democratic leader of the Senate, with a Republican in the White House, he told a Cheyenne audience:

"What Democrats need in a presidential candidate is a qualified, realistic, prudent, progressive who is receptive to new ideas and experienced enough to see them carried into execution—a man who can provide unified leadership for the country through a unified party."

The latter statement expresses exactly what Johnson in the Senate and Speaker Sam Rayburn in the House have been trying to carry out through six years of politically divided national government.

And in pursuance of the same theme Johnson told his Western audiences that he will not say whether he is a candidate for president before adjournment of Congress because to do so would wreck his chances of making a success of the present session.

WHEREFORE, it is evident that what happens between now and congressional adjournment, presumably right on the eve of the Democratic convention in Los Angeles, is going to shape Sen. Johnson's course as concerns the national ticket.

Most important of all Sen. Johnson and Speaker Rayburn will be on hand while the Democratic national platform is being written, with main purpose no doubt, of maintaining the policies they have fought for and measurably accomplished through three Democratic Congresses.

It is important to note finally that Johnson and Rayburn are totally at odds with the present Democratic national chairman, Paul M. Butler, who is using his power to set up a national convention structure totally at odds with prevailing congressional viewpoints.

Speaker Rayburn long ago declined continuance of his long held temporary chairmanship for the reason that he refused to be a part of Butler's organization.

The conclusion inevitably is that Sen. Johnson is modeling his course more to imprint his conception on the Democratic ticket of 1960 than to further his own personal political advancement.

Smokey Still Homeless

By J. F. Terhorst

What this country needs in election year 1960 is a good five-cent contribution for Smokey the Bear.

Smokey, the nation's No. 1 forest fire-fighter for 10 years, is homeless.

And if any candidate for president is reading, there are several million Junior Forest Rangers who would like to see some action on housing this year for a special friend of theirs.

For a decade, first under a Democratic administration and now under the Republicans, Smokey has lent his name and his familiar face to the most successful fire prevention campaign in history.

Smokey gets about 1,000 letters a day, more than senators, congressmen and governors and just about as many as the President.

But all he has received on housing from the politicians and bureaucrats is a string of broken promises.

And so he spends his days in a temporary cage at the National Zoological Park in Washington, just another Cinnamon Bear begging for peanuts; homeless, mateless, cubless.

The Forest Service has a dandy set of plans on the shelf, approved by the zoo and the Smithsonian Institution, to build a separate moated home for Smokey and a mate. It's to be a replica of a forest ranger cagin, with room for little Smokeys to carry on the fire-fighting tradition.

SOMEWHERE among the billions of dollars handled by the Agriculture Department is an account labeled "Home for Smokey." In it is about $2,000 in pennies, nickels and dimes contributed by Junior Rangers and Smokey's young friends around the country.

"But we need about $25,000 to get started," said William Huber, director of the Forest Service's Cooperative Fire Prevention Campaign. "At the rate we're going, Smokey may be gone before we get the money."

Here's where a presidential candidate could step in with a Smokey housing platform, keeping in mind all those Junior Rangers and their voting parents.

Not only is there no tax money to finance Smokey's promised home, but Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson frowns on the idea of the Forest Service soliciting funds for it.

Smokey has been saving millions of dollars and millions of acres from Forest fires ever since he was rescued as a frightened cub from a fire in the Lincoln National Forest of New Mexico in 1950.

The symbol of Smokey, learning on his shovel and wearing a ranger hat, has become a national trademark of the fight against forest fires.

Eight years or so ago, there were about 200,000 man-caused forest fires a year, burning over 30 million acres, an area about the size of New York State. Last year, there were about 100,000 fires caused by man. The toll dropped to four million acres.

Each year, the Forest Service sends out 500,000 of Smokey's Junior Ranger kits to schools, youth clubs and individual Smokey fans, Huber said.

THE KITS include a Junior Ranger badge, membership card, several Smokey stamps, a Smokey photograph and a letter from Smokey with his song printed on the other side.

"The kits cost us about 12 cents each," said Huber. "We send them out free, using the money we earn from the royalties on Smokey scarfs, replica bears and so on. It takes all the royalty money just to finance the kits."

Last month the demand was so great that the Forest Service had to hire an outside firm to help handle Smokey's mail.

Last month also, Congress was asked to provide an air-conditioned kennel for dogs kept by the Public Health Service.

But nobody put in a plug for Smokey, who has grown almost to middle-age waiting for people to make good on a promise.

What About Wallace?

By James Marlow

Nixon's Role Recalls That Of Henry

WASHINGTON

President Eisenhower can get an argument on his idea that no vice president in history had such careful preparation as Richard M. Nixon for carrying out the duties of the presidency.

What about Henry Wallace? President Roosevelt made a lot of use of the tall Iowan when he was vice president from 1941 to 1945. Wallace's total experience in government was probably broader than Nixon's.

In the 1956 campaign, when Eisenhower and Nixon were running for re-election, the President told a Republican picnic at Gettysburg: "There's no man in the history of America who has had such a careful preparation as has Vice President Nixon for carrying out the duties of the presidency, if those duties should ever fall upon him."

Last week Democrats jumped on Eisenhower for saying he may let Nixon sit in for him at the summit meeting this month if it runs too long. They interpreted this as an effort to build up Nixon for this year's presidential campaign.

But looking back — particularly upon the four years since that statement in Gettysburg in 1956 —the wonder is not so much about the use Eisenhower has made of Nixon but that he has not used him far more.

Nixon served in the House and Senate, thus getting insights into the legislative branch of government. Wallace was never in Congress.

But from 1933 until 1941 Wallace as secretary of agriculture under Roosevelt, headed one of the most important and controversial agencies of the executive branch.

That's a kind of experience Nixon never had. He sits in on meetings of the Cabinet and the National Security Council. But Wallace was in Roosevelt's Cabinet, too.

Eisenhower has used Nixon as a goodwill ambassador and personal representative to foreign countries—he has visited 55.

Roosevelt used Wallace as a "messenger," to use his own phrase, and goodwill ambassador, too. He sent Wallace to the Soviet Union, China, India, and Latin America.

Although Nixon served on a couple of minor committees appointed by Eisenhower, Roosevelt used Wallace in far more important jobs while Wallace was vice president before and after we got into the war.

Wallace became a member of the Commission on Inter-American Affairs. He was chairman of the Economic Defense Board and head of the Board of Economic Warfare.

But there is one big difference between the vice presidencies of Nixon and Wallace. Nixon is a politician; Wallace never was. The Republican pros are in Nixon's corner, all set to nominate him for president.

But in 1944 the Democratic pros teamed up against Wallace. This was when Roosevelt sought a fourth term, his health was failing, and it seemed possible his vice president might become president through Roosevelt's death.

Southern Democrats and the Democrats' big city bosses blocked Wallace from running for the vice presidency again. Roosevelt did not fight for him and Harry S. Truman got the nomination.

Press Makes Progress

By Raymond Moley

At the time of the annual meetings of editors and publishers in Washington and New York, the Ayer Awards are given to newspapers whose presentation of the news is regarded as most attractive and interesting to their readers.

The names of the newspapers receiving the awards are not pertinent to the comments which I am making here. But the changes and improvements made by the press in the 13 years are most interesting.

The first task of the judges is to scan the front pages of 800 newspapers, which are laid out in groups according to the four classes specified above. Since the front page of a newspaper is its show window, its attractiveness is most important in catching and holding the attention of readers and this method of making a preliminary judgment is most relevant.

After a preliminary sorting of the most attractive in each group, the judges turn to the inside of the newspapers, especially the editorial page or pages. The judges are not concerned with the content, although the selection of news items deemed worthy of most attention is noted.

In scanning the newspapers in the various classes in both years in which I was a judge, my impression was that newspapers with smaller circulation are more able to experiment and innovate than are the big metropolitan dailies.

IN THE 13 YEARS great progress has been made in illustrations by pictures, diagrams, and charts. The pictures or other illustrative material on the front pages grow more and more eye-catching.

Attention does not necessarily have to be caught by pictures of automobile wrecks or witnesses in murder trials. Some of the more progressive newspapers have given much attention to illustrations of items of international or national interest which tell a story in themselves.

Typography, spacing, and mechanical work have shown progress. Many newspapers have moved into new plants in the past decade and have taken the occasion for a good deal of face-lifting.

Over all, the press is serving its readers better and better.

The Father Image

By Truman Twill

Twilligers already know about this walking delegate's presence in Washington last week. It might be of interest to know how it came about that Adlai Stevenson was a shoo-in when newspaper people were asked who would be the Democratic nominee for president. Even Twill could figure it out.

"Father Image, O Father Image, Come Home With Me Now."

That explained everything.

The American Society of Newspaper Editors had put all the presidential hopefuls but one on the program — Stevenson, young Sen. Kennedy, young Sen. Humphrey, not so young Sen. S. Symington and Vice President Nixon.

All were well-known as names and faces that appear continuously in the press of this country. But when it came to the moment of truth in choosing among Democrats for the likeliest nominee, the Father Image proved to be Gov. Stevenson of Illinois. As of now, that is.

Compared to him, the others seemed to be out of it.

Humphrey, every bit as charming as Kennedy when he speaks in public and far more attractive in the flesh than he is in photographs, looks and sounds like a middle-aged man endowed with inexhaustable energy, trying to hold his energy in check to keep it from running away with him.

Sen. Symington made a negative impression, as far as his address to the newsmen was concerned. He is an earnest man who wants very much to sound like presidential timber, because he looks the part and if he sounded it, the combination would be terrific. But he can't bring it off when he speaks.

Sen. Johnson did not appear, though he had been given a chance. Perhaps he would have split the Father Image with Gov. Stevenson if he had been on hand.

As it was, Stevenson had an armlock on the image; it was all his. He knew what to do with it. He was alternately profound and playful. He searched his soul for wisdom and studied the political firmament for omens. He set the pace by explaining he had been detained on his way to the meeting by the Washington reception for President DeGaulle. "National heroes always are getting in my way," he said wistfully.

Vice President Nixon put on another, question-and-answer performance, in which he takes on all questioners catch-as-catch-can. He has made a name for himself in this difficult performance and eliminated all doubt of his mental capacity to be the top federal official. He is what his friends say he is, the best trained presidential candidate of all time.

The side issue in the November election, whoever the Democratic candidate is, will be whether a man trained for the presidency will be given credit for his training; whether Americans are ready for the beginning of professional government, as opposed to government by amateurs and volunteers.

If the race is between Vice President Nixon and Gov. Stevenson, it will be a dilly. There will be that Father Image again. Mr. Nixon knows all the answers, but he could not be the Father Image in a contest with Adlai Stevenson, who was picked as the likely Democratic nominee by the newspaper crowd in Washington last week because he seemed to know the questions as well as the answers.

That may well be Vice President Nixon's campaign problem—that Father Image.

Youth Begins Court Fight To Escape Florida's Chair

By BEN FUNK

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)— Dennis Whitney, 17-year-old Californian whose frontier-pistol snuffed out seven lives in a casual coast-to-coast robbery spree, began a court battle today to save himself from death in Florida's electric chair.

The red-haired youth went on trial on a first-degree murder charge in the killing of Virginia Selby, 62, a Hialeah, Fla., grandmother whose body was found March 4 in bushes near Jupiter, 80 miles north of Miami.

Whitney confessed he shot Mrs. Selby with a long-barreled .22 caliber pistol when she hit him in the face with a hammer after he had commandeered her car in Miami. He admitted he also killed three men in Arizona, two in Florida and one in California.

The hope of an insanity plea for Whitney was squashed Sunday night by a psychiatrist's report that the sullen teen-ager was sane when he killed Mrs. Selby, and is sane now.

State atty. Phil O'Connell will demand the death penalty. Charles A. Nugent, court-appointed defender of Whitney, said he hoped to prove that the slaying of Mrs. Selby was a case of second or third-degree murder.

If Whitney gets any sentence but death, Dade County Miami authorities want to try him for the killing of two service station attendants.

Three Are Arrested For Liquor Hijacking

GREENSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Three men were in custody today, accused of trying to hijack a liquor cargo valued at $45,000 to $50,000.

Capt. Paul A. Rittelmann of the state police said the men are Jerome Sukolsky, 41, a Pittsburgh ironworker; Wilson W. Daniels, 26, of Pittsburgh, and William Benson, 61, owner of a farm at nearby Export, R. D. 1.

Rittelmann said 53 FBI agents, state policemen and Pittsburgh policemen hid at Benson's farm early Sunday and watched a stolen truckload of 900 cases of liquor being unloaded.

"After watching the operation long enough to determine that no others were involved," Rittelmann said, "we moved in and arrested three men."

Nixon Blasts At His Critics

CHICAGO (AP) — Retorting to Democratic challenges, vice President Richard M. Nixon says he has no intention of divorcing himself from the record of the Eisenhower administration. Nor, he adds, will he just stand pat on it.

Nixon, considered a shoo-in for the Republican presidential nomination, talking to newsmen and over television, declared Sunday:

"I intend, in the field of farm problems, in problems dealing with our cities, in various other areas, to build on from here and to present to the American people my own program for the future at the same time I defend the policies of the past."

Nixon emphasized the farm problem, saying there must be a new one to replace one "everybody agrees is wrong. We need a new approach agreeable to the farmer and to the nation as a whole."

Referring to medical aid for the aged, the vice president said he favored a limited non-compulsory federal program. He conceded this stand was a departure from the views of some members of his party.

Nixon hurled a challenge at Democrats who had criticiized him Saturday night by saying he would never be able to divorce himself from the Eisenhower record.

"The eight years of the Eisenhower administration have been the finest record of any administration in history," he said.

"I happen to be very proud of this record," he said again later. "I helped make it."

CHATHAM, N. J. (AP) — Sign of the times: children in elementary classes in this community's school can now elect to study elementary Russian.

German and French are also offered, as they are in other grade schools.

Letter Snafu Pulled By Delegate's Aide

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — A member of the Maryland House of Delegates, trying to acknowledge the voice of the people by writing a letter to the editor of his county weekly newspaper, wonders if his message got through.

It was meant for The Cecil Whig at Elkton, Md. But busy Statehouse workers in the stenographer's pool addressed it to "The Elkton Whiz, Elton, Md."

Then they filed the original and mailed the unsigned carbon copy.

Sorry, Girls, He Plans To Be Bachelor A While

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Sorry, girls, Van Cliburn plans to remain a bachelor for a while longer, at least.

The 25-year-old pianist recently said he doesn't think a man should get married until he's past 25.

"A man can almost think about getting tied down in marriage, but then, the more he thinks about it, the more precious his liberty becomes," he said.

KENNETH E. BELL
Candidate for STATE REPRESENTATIVE
Mine is a new face in the Political race, and I don't pretend to know all the answers. Let us think for a moment what we want from our State Government? I think we all agree that the trend to more expenditures and higher taxes will have to change to less expenditures and lower taxes or Ohio is going to lose more business and JOBS.
When shops and business leave a state, valuation goes down and tax rates go up resulting in less jobs and more unemployment compensation. Unemployment Compensation can't take the place of Jobs for long. No matter how strong our unions if we don't have the business with jobs, we will be in bad shape.
I believe we as a state can Economize in many ways without hurting our vital services. Why build Million Dollar road bridges and curve eliminations only to by-pass them in a year or so, or have to pay for new school buildings twice through long term financing?
With your support and help both before and after election, I believe that, Columbiana County through their Representation in the Legislature can help to keep OHIO a good State in which to live and Prosper.

260 Attend Wellsville Meeting

Education Seen Mission Of Church

"Christian education is at the heart of the mission of the church," Mrs. Mildred Board Grubbs of Pittsburgh told 260 at the second annual meeting of the Steubenville Presbyterial Society Friday in Wellsville. The Woman's Association of the Riverside United Presbyterian Church was the hostess.

The speaker explained that the Board of Christian Education in the east central area office, of which she is secretary, was established in 1958 to help fulfill the assignment of "Go, Teach, Make Disciples."

She declared: "We are in spiritual danger. When we recognize our helplessness and weakness, then we realize what it is to be a member of a church. Christ wants us to witness outside the four walls of the church and to be interested in every person we meet in our daily life."

Mrs. Grubbs mentioned some objectives of her board: Adult and youth programs, ministry on the college campus and the concern at decreasing number of students going into Christian service.

MRS. CLYDE BOWER of Scio, spiritual life and stewardship secretary, read Psalm 139 and concluded the afternoon meditations with prayer for missions. A playlet on plans for 1960, with Mrs. George Mullen of Richmond serving as chairman, was presented by Mrs. Mary Schupp of Dennison, Ecumenical missionals; Mrs. Clifford Wilson of Knoxville, national missions; Mrs. James Barnhouse of Starkdale, Christian education; Mrs. Homer Huston of Carrollton, sewing supplies and box worker; Mrs. Bower, spiritual life, and Mrs. Wilbur Ruthem of Bloomingdale, treasurer.

Announcement was made of an NBC TV program May 27 from 8:30 to 9:30 p. m. from Sage Memorial Hospital at Ganado, Ariz.

The dedicatory offering prayer was given by Mrs. Bower. Mrs. Jayne Smith Kata of the host church choir sang "Prayer Guion." She was accompanied by Mrs. David Brookman, organist, who played music for the two sessions. Mrs. Grubbs gave the benediction.

A reading drama, "His Wonderful Deeds we Declare," based on the day's theme, opened the morning session. It was presented by Mrs. Joan Cooper, Mrs. Nancy Wygant, Mrs. Barbara Freedland, Mrs. Priscilla Allen, Mrs. Elizabeth Cottrell, Mrs. Kathryn Bushfield, Mrs. Anna Mae Smith and Mrs. Ethel Garee from the Toronto church.

AN HONORARY membership was bestowed on Mrs. Mary Schupp by the women of the Dennison church. The Rev. Robert Neal, pastor, presented the associate Christian education pin to her.

Officers who will serve for 1960-62 were installed by the Rev. Robert Geyer of Mingo Junction, moderator of Steubenville presbytery.

They are: Mrs. Mullen, vice president, chairman of world service department; Mrs. Robert Walter of Wintersville, recording secretary and historian; Mrs. Ruthem, world service treasurer; Mrs. William Peeler of Mingo Junction, secretary of membership and United Presbyterian homes; Mrs. Louis Hartman of Uhrichsville, newsletter; Mrs. Leroy Antram of Malvern, senior high and United Presbyterian youth advisor; Mrs. Leland Pittenger of East Liverpool, secretary of social education and action; Mrs. James Barnhouse of Steubenville, secretary of Christian education; Mrs. Harry Huston of Carrollton, secretary of sewing, supplies and boxwork.

DISTRICT OFFICERS also installed are Mrs. Ralph Hilbert of Cadiz, president, and Mrs. Leland Jones of Scio, secretary-treasurer, of No. 3; Mrs. Milton Davis of Minerva, president, and Mrs. James Thompson of Kensington, secretary-treasurer, No. 4. New nominating committee members are Mrs. John Keyser of Scio, chairman, and Mrs. Frank Mills of Minerva.

The fellowship department, with Mrs. Lawrence Fleming of Steubenville as chairman, presented "A Committee Meeting." Participating were Mrs. Mae Peeler of Mingo Junction, membership drive and fellowship of the least coin; Mrs. Donald Baxter of Trinity church of East Liverpool, Beaver Camp; Mrs. Dorothy Gray of Knoxville, children work, and Mrs. Robert Tanguay of Glenmoor, evangelism.

Mrs. Herbert Frischkorn of the Oak Ridge church, chairman of the program department, presented a panel on "The Problem of Social Drinking." Mrs. Miriam Miller of Trinity Church in East Liverpool, chairman, was assisted by Mrs. Lee Myers of Longs Run, Mrs. Unger of Second Church of East Liverpool, and Mrs. Pittenger.

MRS. FRISCHKORN discussed the literature basket circulating through the churches of the presbyterial. It consists of four books, with a certificate to be given to the women reading all four. She also told of the 1960 thankoffering slides that are available.

Mrs. Cedric Stanway, president of the Wellsville group, gave the welcome while Rev. Geyer extended greeting from the Presbytery. Mrs. Grubbs extended a welcome from the area office and announced that she would be serving at Maryville College in Tennessee during the summer. Other secretaries in the area office are Mrs. Evelyn Fulton, who will be going to Egypt, and Mrs. Alice Maloney who will go to Alaska.

During business conducted by Mrs. Bray Toot of Delroy, president, a minutes committee comprised of Mrs. Stanway, Mrs. Pittenger and Mrs. Toot was announced. Reports were given by Mrs. Wilbur Trushell of Scio and Mrs. Ruthem, treasurers. Mrs. Mullen reported that the goal for world service for 1960 is $22,925.

THE REV. GEORGE JENKINS of Carrollton, presbyter, gave a list of the following meetings: General Assembly at Cleveland June 13-14, stressing "Town and Country" lessons; Bible School Training May 13 at 2 p. m. at Westminster Church, Steubenville; Beaver Creek counselors' training at the camp site May 21 at 10 a. m.; Christian Education Institute at Starkdale church May 22, 3 to 5:30 p. m. Dates of June and July presbyterial meetings were listed on the program.

A basket of yellow and white mums palms and the association insignia adorned the front of the sanctuary. A sack lunch, with coffee served by women of the hostess group, was held at noon in the diningroom. The 1961 spring meeting will be at Carrollton.

Township Begins Repairs On Roads

Liverpool Township trustees said today the annual road repair program has been started.

Patching of streets is well underway and the "chipping" program will begin sometime this week, according to Guy V. Digman, chairman. Chipping is the term given to the process of applying a heavy emulsion and slag to the roads. After it is rolled it hardens.

Under the improvement program, the township provides the slag and equipment while the residents pay for the asphaltic emulsion. Digman said the trustees will try to have as many streets coated as possible this summer.

The next trustees' meeting will be Friday, May 13, at City Hall. Digman pointed out that one or two of the trustees are present at City Hall every Friday night to receive complaints from residents.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Readers: Recently a woman wrote to bemoan the fact that she couldn't make a successful gelatin dessert. I had to admit my molds wouldn't win any prizes either. I invited the readers to help us both with inside tips.

Apparently thousands of women in America are making perfect gelatin desserts — and I feel more stupid than ever. Thank you, one and all, for the homey hints.

White Plains, N.Y.: Anyone who can't make a gelatin dessert doesn't know how to boil water —and I mean it literally. When the directions say BOILING water it doesn't mean HOT water. I'll bet this is where you goofed.

Pueblo, Colo.: I follow the directions that used to be on the box. The old instructions called for HOT water. Some flea-brain changed it to BOILING water. I'll bet this is why you're having trouble.

-:-

Paducah, Ky.: I'll bet warm fruit is what's lousing you up. If you chill the fruit for three hours your mold will be perfect.

-:-

Detroit: I'm a man but I cook better than my wife. Your gelatin will never set if you put fresh pineapple in it.

-:-

Cleveland: I'm a home ec teacher. I always recommend aluminum bowls for mixing gelatin. It never fails.

-:-

Lafayette, La.: Throw out that new-fangled plastic bowl, Ann Landers, and use the old-fashioned clear glass bowl that grandmother used for everything.

Salem, Ore.: Call me crazy but I never made a successful mold until my neighbor told me her secret. Mix it in a stainless steel fry pan.

-:-

-:-

Charleston, W.Va.: A teaspoon of sugar will make it congeal.

Marshalltown, Iowa: My mother never fooled with measurements or directions and she was a marvelous cook. She never stirred gelatin, she shook it. One July 4th she made a mold of the American Flag, using marshmallows for stars. It was gorgeous!

-:-

Syracuse, N.Y.: Your trouble is probably the mold, not the gelatin. Grease it slightly and it'll flop out in perfect condition.

-:-

Madison, Wis.: Ignore the directions. Do just the opposite. Dissolve the gelatin in cold water, then add hot.

-:-

San Juan, Puerto Rico: Use ice cubes instead of cold water. It never fails.

Grand Rapids, Mich.: Don't let anyone talk you into using ice cubes. The size of cubes varies and you never can be sure of the amount of liquid five cubes will produce.

-:-

Honolulu! Have you checked your refrigerator lately, Ann? I'll bet it's not cold enough.

Chicago: I live about three blocks from you, Ann Landers. I'll make your molds if you'll make pie crusts for me.

-:-

Louisville, Ky.: My molds used to flop, too, especially when I had guests. My psychiatrist said to accept the fact that I'd never be able to make a successful mold. He urged me to switch to custards. I did, and now I'm perfectly happy.

-:-

Topeka, Kan.: My 5-year-old daughter taught me how to make a perfect mold. You know how kids love to stir stir stir! One day she was "helping me" and her mold was a beauty. Now I know!

-:-

Rochester, Minn.: If you cover your gelatin mold with a dinner plate so no air can get in, you'll have a prize winner.

St. Louis: If you can't make a gelatin dessert, so what? You write a darned fine advice column. My wife makes flawless molds but she's stpuid.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Meeting Reports Given For Singers

Tentative plans were made for a party May 13 to highlight the installation of officers and honoring The Heather Tones quartet, which placed first at the regional competition, and the chorus, which came in third. The president will appoint the committees in charge of arrangements.

The chorus will sing for the Cadiz barbershop parade Friday night. It will meet 8 p. m. at the high school there.

20 Club Pinochle Hand One In 833 Quadrillion

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Pinochle player W. Leland Pitts says he's confident it'll never happen again "if I live to be 100."

Pitts fanned his cards after a deal and discovered to his astonishment he had all 20 clubs from the double deck.

As Royal Wedding Nears

Archbishop's Firm Stand Recalled

On Friday Princess Margaret and the Archbishop of Canterbury will be central figures in the romantic event the year, her marriage to Antony Armstrong-Jones. But five years ago Margaret and the archbishop were central figures in a romantic drama with a less happy ending. Here is the story, first of a series of four articles on the royal wedding.

By COLIN FROST

LONDON (AP) — Two principals in one of the strangest dramas of British royalty — a beautiful, gay princess and a plainspoken, richly robed archbishop — will meet again Friday at the altar of Westminster Abbey.

"Margaret Rose," the archbishop will say, "wilt thou have this man to be thy wedded husband, to live together after God's ordinance in the holy estate of matrimony?"

"I will," the princess will reply.

And the archbishop may then be permitted a moment of self-congratulation.

Five years ago 73-year-old Geoffrey Fisher, archbishop of Canterbury and Anglican primate of all England, was instrumental in breaking up Princess Margaret's romance with Peter Townsend, the divorced air hero she wanted to marry.

On Friday the archbishop will be officiating at her marriage to Antony Armstrong-Jones. Margaret's sorrow will have come to a happy ending, and the church's teaching of the sanctity of marriage will have been upheld.

The archbishop is an ex-schoolmaster. Beneath the wispy gray hair reposes one of the great brains of Britain. He lives simply, smokes a pipe, has a genial good humor. He likes a game of cricket and a glass of wine.

In short, he is exactly the sort of man the British normally approve of. Yet no one would call him popular.

After the Townsend affair, he was booed in public. Newspapers said he was out of touch with the 20th century and called for him to resign. All this made no difference in his belief in the lifelong duration of Christian marriage, in the sanctity of the words "those whom God hath joined together let no man put asunder."

This was the view he pressed on Margaret in 1955 and the view she accepted — that she must not marry the divorced man Townsend.

Despite the ceremony's insistence on the lifelong nature of the marriage vows, the royal family's guests at the wedding will include a number of divorced notables.

In the place of honor behind Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip will stand the bridegroom's divorced parents. The second and third wives of Armstrong-Jones Sr. will sit in the nave.

One notable divorcee still apparently is barred — the duchess of Windsor, the twice-divorced American for whom Edward VIII gave up the throne of England.

Neither she nor the duke will be at the wedding. Twenty-four years after the abdication, the former Wallis Warfield Spencer Simpson still is unacceptable to the Queen and her advisers, as Peter Townsend was five years ago.

Martin Sweeney, Political Figure, Dies In His Sleep

His wife, Marie, found him dead when she went to awaken him for church.

Sweeney, a law partner with one of his sons, Robert E. Sweeney, was physically active to the end and had been handling a case in Common Pleas Court.

In addition to his years in Congress, his political career included two years as a state representative and eight as a Cleveland municipal judge. He was a Democrat.

Sweeney was first elected to public office in 1912, as a state representative.

In 1931, Sweeney ran on a platform which advocated repeal of prohibition and won an overwhelming victory to fill a vacancy for Congress from the 20th District.

He immediately gained national publicity by telling his colleagues in his first speech in the House of Representatives that they were "behaving like a lot of old women" on the prohibition issue.

He was defeated by Michael A. Feighan in the congressional race in 1942. He later was unsuccessful in his race for governor of Ohio.

Services for Sweeney, a native of Cleveland, will be held at 10 a. m. Wednesday in St. John Cathedral.

Work camp for the senior high and older youth will begin June 6-11 and the Senior High Institute will be held July 11-16. Other camp dates will be Aug. 1-13.

The Rev. Carl Beighley, pastor of the Calvary Methodist Church and district youth director, spoke briefly. The sub-district county rally will be held May 15 at the Salem Church, of which the Rev. William Snowball is pastor.

Bob Stewart of East Liverpool, sub-district president, will conduct business, which will feature election of officers.

Driver Draws Penalty After Police Chase

A Smiths Ferry area motorist was fined $50 and costs today for reckless driving, but Judge Samuel M. Chertoff dismissed two other charges because they constituted part of the reckless driving count.

Lee Wayne McDole of Smiths Ferry R. D. 1 pleaded guilty to charges of reckless driving, crashing a traffic signal at Pennsylvania Ave. and Mulberry St. and failing to stop for a stop sign at Ravine St. and Bradshaw Ave.

However, Assistant Solicitor Richard J. Clark pointed out to the judge the three charges were part of the same offense after a high speed chase from the East End to Bradshaw Ave. early Saturday morning.

Patrolman Orin Smith said he was in a crusier on Pennsylvania Ave. near Virginia Ave. when he saw the car headed west at a high rate of speed and crash the traffic signal. The officer said he started in pursuit but McDole ignored his siren and flashing red light and reached an estimated speed of 70 to 80 miles an hour on the "Hill Rd."

McDole turned off suddenly at Ravine St., almost upsetting his car, and then continued to Bradshaw where he failed to stop for a stop sign. He headed up Bradshaw Ave. but finally was halted with the aid of the downtown cruiser, the officer told the court in an unsworn statement.

Salvadore F. Gualtiere of Steubenville forfeited a $56 bond on a reckless driving charge after police chased him almost to Wellsville early this morning before stopping him.

Police said Gualtiere entered W. 8th St. from Jefferson St. at a high rate of speed early this morning. He was in the left lane as he approached a car pulling away from the traffic light at Lisbon and W. 8th Sts. but swung into the right lane and passed, police said.

Dora B. Taylor, 1225 Ceramic St., was fined $10 and costs after pleading guilty to a charge of failing to stop at the intersection of Routes 7 and 30 Friday night. She was cited by the State Highway Patrol.

Two other motorists cited by the patrol Friday night on Route 7 forfeited $31 bonds. Andrew Lee of Warren was cited for driving left of center and Charles H. McConnell of Detroit was charged with reckless driving.

Clarence Spann, 218 18th St., Wellsville, will be given a hearing later this week on a charge of illegal registration. Spann was cited Saturday morning on Walnut St., police said. Judge Chertoff said the exact date for the hearing hasn't been set. Spann posted a $56 bond.

Meeting Fixed For Advisors

LISBON — An organization meeting of the Columbiana County Welfare Department Advisory Board has been set for Friday at 1 p. m. in the probate court room in the courthouse, according to Juvenile Judge Louis Tobin.

Members of the new board, besides Judge Tobin, are George T. Farrall, Campground Rd., East Liverpool, Robert Taggart of Wellsville, Atty. Guy Mauro and Mrs. Harry Anderson of Salem, Mrs. Kay Blackburn of Columbiana and Mrs. Herbert Hanna of Winona.

Two more members are expected to be appointed by Commissioners Walter Hunston and R. Max Gard, possibly before the Friday meeting, Commissioner Chairman Frank Wilson said.

All aspects of the welfare department, such as the receiving home, foster homes and care of the aged, will be studied by the group, which will aid and advise Welfare Director Robert Bycroft. Bycroft also will attend the organization meeting.

The six members have served on the County Board of Visitors for the past year and will continue in that capacity, along with their added duties, Wilson said.

The United States is going to the Paris talks "with a sincere desire to do all possible to reduce the tensions and dangers that now exist," he said. But he added that the world's problems "are not susceptible to early solution."

The ministers readily approved the Western position on disarmament as outlined by British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd on behalf of the five Western nations represented in the deadlocked Geneva East - West disarmament conference.

These five nations—the United States, Britain, France, Italy and Canada—have been meeting for weeks with five Soviet bloc countries in a futile effort to reach some basis for an agreement on mutual disarmament. These talks are now recessed until June.

The Westerners are not completely agreed among themselves.

The West sincerely desires general and complete disarmament—as Khrushchev has proposed—provided this is done under adequate and effective controls to keep the powers from cheating. The West wants the summit meeting to issue some concrete joint suggestions to the 10-power Geneva conference.

Menderes accused the opposition Republican People's party of adopting a "policy of rebellion" out of jealousy for the achievements of his regime.

The 61-year-old premier told the nation in a radio broadcast Sunday night: "Their chances of winning a new election are nil so they embarked on a nefarious policy of inciting some 3,000 to 4,000 students, taken to the streets at a time when a major international conference was about to take place in Istanbul."

Spokesmen for the Republicans, outnumbered more than 3 to 1 in Parliament, denied instigating the demonstrations.

The party, led by former President Ismet Inonu, has been beaten in three national elections since 1950 by Menderes' Democratic party.

Calm was reported throughout the country after last week's demonstrations and riots in Istanbul, Ankara and the NATO port of Izmir.

The military commander of Istanbul announced he had given orders to all units under his command "to resist most severely against the smallest gatherings and touse arms when necessary."

Motorist Hurt In City Mishap

A Chester motorist was injured early Sunday when his car struck a parked car on E. 3rd St., and a city man's auto was demolished a few minutes later after it was struck by an eastbound train only five minutes after he reported it stolen, police reported.

Orville E. Evans, 48, of 176 Carolina Ave. told police he was headed east on E. 3rd St., went through a green lite at the intersection with Broadway and then blacked out. Evans was released from City Hospital after treatment for contusions of the chest and multiple abrasions of the right arm.

Police said Evans' car hit the rear of a parked car owned by Ernest G. Bates, 618 Garner Ave., and shoved it into another parked car owned by Glenn Seevers, 936 Plutus Ave., also of Chester.

Evans was charged with reckless operation, but failed to appear this morning in Municipal Court.

A 1954 two-door sedan owned by Ernest Simmons, 100 W. 2nd St., was demolished when struck by the eastbound Pennsylvania Railroad freight at 1:50 a. m. at the W. 2nd St. crossing.

Simmons had called police from a Dresden Ave. tavern at 1:45 a. m. and said his car had been stolen. He had parked it at 1:15 a. m., he told officers.

Police instructed Simmons to report to headquarters in City Hall and he was in the station when police received the report of the car being struck by a train.

C. C. Johnston of New Albany, engineer, told police the train was traveling about 27 miles an hour when he saw the car sitting across the eastbound tracks. He was unable to stop the train before it struck the car, the engineer said.

DiSalle And Porter Debate Issues In Delegate Battle

CLEVELAND (AP) — Gov. Michael V. DiSalle and Albert S. Porter met face-to-face on a television (KYW) program Sunday and politely debated the issues in a campaign that has seen more than a few bitter accusations.

The governor and Porter, the Cuyahoga County engineer, are named as favorite sons on opposing slates of candidates for delegate to the Democratic national convention. Both are pledged to support U.S. Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts.

The governor said he thinks the differences between the state and Cuyahoga County organizations will be resolved the day of the election. He said there had been "no name-calling on my part" but that Porter had accused him of being a dictator who was attempting one-man rule and who wanted to use delegates as pawns.

(Early in the campaign, the governor called Ray T. Miller, Cuyahoga County Democratic chairman, a political boss and indicated he was battling against what he termed "Millerism.")

Porter said the issue was one of "home rule" for the county organization. DiSalle retorted: "We believe in home rule all over Ohio, not just in Cuyahoga County."

Porter argued that DiSalle had refused Cuyahoga County delegates the right to run on his slate and that therefore this county's Democratic organization had been forced to run its own slate.

The governor responded that the local organization had asked for more delegates than it was entitled to and that "we felt he (Miller) was being unreasonable and unfair."

Neither made any flat prediction as to the number of delegates his slate would win.

Porter said he felt the Cuyahoga group would elect "a substantial number" of delegates and that he would consider the election of even one as "a moral victory."

The governor said the loss of one delegate would not be considered a defeat because "if Cuyahoga County had gone along with the state slate they would have had 12 or 14 delegates."

Miller, however, in a statement issued Sunday night, predicted a sweeping victory for the slate headed by Porter.

The county chairman said, "When DiSalle started vicious name-calling, we knew at once we had him on the run."

Miller predicted a lead of 50,000 votes for the local group in this county and said this would carry the partial slate throughout the state.

Declaring that DiSalle is weak "throughout the state," Miller said:

"People are up in arms over tax increases, robbing motorists of a nickle on license plates, heartless treatment in mental care shake-downs, double-standards on vice in Toledo . . . and many other misdeeds which have alienated the honest Ohio citizen."

"Tuesday's results," he said, "will prove that the DiSalle brand of dictatorism has failed."

CARLISLE, Ky. (AP) — An Akron, Ohio, man, Charles Starkley, 45, and his son, John, 2½, were killed in a two-car wreck on U.S. 68 about four miles south of here Sunday. Four other persons were hurt.

3-Day 'Model Legislature' Closes With Rush Of Bills

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—"Today we are youth enacting needed but model legislation. . . but tomorrow we rule the world," commented Gov. William Rose of the ninth YMCA Model Legislature as the youthful delegates wound up their sessions Sunday and headed for home.

Rose, from Shaker Heights, added:

"Learning legislation and its processes should be an integral part of every youth's education."

The junior lawmakers, from 500 Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y clubs throughout the state, got some of that education in the three-day session in which they considered 81 bills and resolutions and enacted 26.

Seventeen measures were rushed through a joint session of the House and Senate Sunday as the delegates met in the real-life chambers of the Statehouse.

The House refused to concur with Senate action on a bill which would have outlawed all types of birth control. Another important piece of legislation, to abolish capital punishment, also failed to be enacted.

But after a spirited debate, House members submitted a joint resolution, with Senate approval, stating that the model legislature was firmly against all obscene literature, relative to selling, exhibiting and possessing such matter, or drugs, for criminal purposes.

USW Spent 20 Million In Recent Steel Strike

PITTSBURGH (AP — The United Steelworkers had to pay out 20 million dollars in union funds during the 116-day nation-wide steel strike in 1959.

I. W. Abel, the union's secretary-treasurer, made the figure public Saturday at the closing session of a two-day conference of 300 delegates from USW District 15.

Abel said the money was spent for negotiations, travel, assistance to union locals and the union's fight against the Taft-Hartley injunction that halted the strike.

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE CITIZENS OF EAST LIVERPOOL

April 27, 1960

Dear Parents:

Because we know that you are greatly concerned about the welfare of your child, including his educational opportunities, we wanted to remind you that you have a responsibility in his behalf on Tuesday, May 3.

On that date you and the other voters of our community will be asked to express your opinion on three tax levies for your schools. These levies total 12 mills — 8 renewal and 4 new. Just as you as an individual feel the effects of the seemingly never ending spiral of inflation, your schools do also. Therefore, in addition to asking the voters to renew the existing 8 mills it is also necessary to request the additional 4 mills to meet increasing costs. These funds are needed for textbooks, educational supplies, educational equipment, library facilities, building maintenance and to grant a salary increase to school personnel — the ingredients of a good school system.

Your Board of Education has requested only one tax increase since 1951 and at the present time the tax rate for schools in East Liverpool is one of the lowest in Columbiana County. East Liverpool School tax rate is 18.8 mills, Salem is 29.5 mills, Beaver Local (Calcutta) is 26.1 mills, Lisbon is 25.2 mills and Wellsville is 23.3 mills.

We feel certain that you want your child and the other boys and girls in our community to continue to have adequate educational opportunities — opportunities which compare favorably to those which boys and girls have in other communities. You may express this desire by supporting the school tax levies at the polls next Tuesday.

Sincerely,
(SIGNED) Ralph W. Betts
Superintendent Of Schools

P. S. The 12 mills will be presented as three separate issues on the ballot—

VOTE FOR ALL THREE!

X	3 MILLS	For School Supplies Books, Salaries
X	1 MILL	For Badly Needed Building Repairs
X	8 MILLS	Renewal Levy School Operation

Outdoor Furniture Needs Checkup

AP Newsfeatures

It's time to refurbish outdoor furniture.

If it has weathered the winter outdoors, fine. But, don't be fooled by its ruggedness. When summer sunshine hits it, if it is wooden, chances are it will experience a breakdown. Then it will sag, with nails pushing out and wood splitting and rotting.

Pine and redwood chairs should be inspected for places that "give." Smooth any cracks or rough spots by sanding and filling holes with commercial filler. Countersink nailheads.

Metal fittings on wood and metal furniture can be freed of rust with steel wool or sandpaper. Use good quality varnish, shellac or other sealer that your paint man recommends. Spar varnish or one of the natural inexpensive finishes may be used on redwood or cedar. Varnish or pigmented finish should be applied by brush.

The inexpensive peel chairs that are used outdoors and on screened-in porches, and wicker chairs, look handsome when painted white or pastel colors.

Peel chairs should be repaired if needed, by winding loose peel around the areas where it is missing. If more of the bamboo-like peel is needed and not available, substitute raffia or twine, gluing it as you go. It is particularly important to wind peeled sections of legs and arms before painting them.

WICKER furniture takes best to spray paints — easier on the back, also. Use a spray gun or the vacuum cleaner spray attachment.

Metal, like wood, should be prepared before you clean it. Remove dust, dirt, oil and grease with a cloth saturated with turpentine or paint thinner.

Sand away any chipped or peeling paint and roughen highly-glossed areas to provide good adhesion for your new treatment. Dust and soot can be washed away with detergent. Whatever the cleaning method used, be sure to dry the furniture thoroughly before you go on with your project.

Metal furniture should be free of rust before it is repainted. Spots of bare metal and unpainted metal furniture should be primed with a rust-inhibiting primer such as zinc chromate.

The recommended finish for outdoor metal furniture is a good exterior enamel, tough and durable, providing protection against the elements. If the furniture is to be used only indoors, a regular enamel can be used. Either enamel can be applied by brush or spray.

Peel, wicker and metal chairs are especially gay painted white and cushioned in blues, turquoises, deep greens, yellows, lavendars, reds. Corduroy or sail cloth are good fabrics to use for cushions.

WHEN painting summer furniture, place chairs and tables upside down on a bench or table that is covered with newspaper. It's much easier to paint the undersurfaces and legs at that comfortable height.

When these areas are coated, place the pieces right side up and finish. If you are spraying, allow yourself a good amount of space, protecting nearby areas with newspapers or drop cloths. When applying the enamel by brush, put it on smoothly, and use a nearly dry brush to brush it out evenly. Remove excess which can cause runs.

If you plan to paint outdoors, select a day with little wind so that debris will not adhere to freshly coated surfaces. Do not paint in the direct rays of the sun, for the sun can cause the paint to blister.

If you paint indoors, provide adequate ventilation in your work area. Indoors or outdoors, choose a day with little humidity so that the drying time will not be prolonged.

Catholic War Vets Defeat Action To End Death Order

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Ohio Catholic War Veterans, winding up a three-day convention, defeated a resolution to abolish the state's death penalty.

In other actions Sunday, the convention attended by some 300 persons reaffirmed a resolution opposing Yugoslav Premier Marshal Tito's proposed 1960 visit to this country, endorsed a program to make Good Friday a legal holiday and resolved to ask the State Department to make all possible efforts to secure the release of Bishop Walsh from Communist China.

Michael G. Paul of Cleveland was elected commander. Miss Midge Ariens of Cincinnati was named first vice commander.

MODEST OR ELEGANT—take your pick. This 3-bedroom, 1½ bath home can be built as an economy model or as a prestige house. The breezeway and garage can be omitted, saving about $2,000. The private lavatory can be left as a closet; the circular dining window can be left as a straight wall (eating in kitchen or rear of living room) and fireplace and barbeque chimney block can be excluded —all to be added later if the builder wishes. The designer is Architect Rudolph A. Matern, 90-04 161 St., Jamaica 32, N. Y., and the plan is HA 140M.

Suggestions Are Presented On Proper Hanging Of Doors

Hanging a door may seem to be something of a difficult matter, but in reality it is quite simple if you follow a few rules.

To begin with, when the amateur carpenter is attempting this job, the first thing is to have the door you intend to use on hand, and work from its measurement. This saves a lot of laborious sawing and planing. The second rule is to attach the hinges to the door and not to the door frame.

When the door has been fitted with the hinges it should be set in the opening to make sure of the proper clearances and then wedged in while one screw is set in each hinge.

After the wedges are removed and the door swings easily, the hinges can be secured permanently. The man doing this job should remember that it makes a lot of difference which way a door opens. If the door is at one end of a partition, it must swing in and against the wall, unless, of course, it would swing against a closet door or a window. Changing the direction of swing often makes a great difference in the wall space available in a room. This point must be considered carefully.

After the direction of swing is established to the best advantage, the stop beads can be tacked along the frame and the lock assembly set in the door. The setting of the striking plate in the frame is left until the lock is installed on the door and the proper location made sure of.

Bedroom doors, bathroom doors or any door except linen - closet doors, never should open into a hallway. The reason for the exception is that linen closets are usually small and the shelves prevent the door from opening inward.

The personal home of President Charles de Gaulle of France is at Colombey-les-Deux-Eglises, a village of 350 inhabitants in the Champagne area, about 125 miles east of Paris.

Conversion Urged For GI Insurance

Some 178,250 Ohio veterans holding GI term life insurance should consider converting to permanent plans, William Holsinger, manager of the Veterans Administration Regional Office in Cleveland, advised today.

Only 110,000 Ohio veterans have thus far converted to permanent insurance, he said.

Premium rates for permanent plans of insurance are higher than those for term policies issued at the same age, but the premium rate on the permanent plan remains the same throughout the lifetime of the policy. The rate on term policies increases every five years.

These increases are small at the younger ages, but get progressively higher at the older ages. As an example, Holsinger cited how the annual premium on dividend participating term insurance leaps from $30.78 per $1,000 insurance at age 60 to $47 at age 65 and to $73.16 at age 70.

As the average life expectancy increases and veterans grow older, more and more policyholders will be faced with the rising cost of term insurance if they plan lifetime protection, he added.

Phoenix Led Cities In 1959 Expansion

CHICAGO (AP) — Phoenix led cities last year in annexing territory into its limits with 57 squares miles and 118,600 persons.

The International City Managers' Assn., says in 1958 Phoenix added 16 square miles and 50,000 persons and already in 1960 another 75 square miles containing 60,000 residents have been annexed.

More than half of Phoenix' 430,000 residents and 80 per cent of its 185 square miles have been brought under its jurisdiction within two years.

Of the 533 municipalities over 5,000 population which annexed territory in 1959, 150 added one-half square mile or more and 15 extended their boundaries more than 10 square miles.

Lawn Mower Care Advised

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

That power lawn mower won't stay in good running order unless you take care of it.

That means periodic maintenance checks to prevent serious trouble before it occurs.

You can make most of these checks yourself. But be sure you disconnect the sparkplug before working on the engine or cutting blade. This will prevent any accidental starting of the motor should the magneto flywheel be revolved inadvertently.

Bend the wire away from the terminal so the spark can not jump a small gap.

How does a non-mechanic go about getting his lawn mower in shape for the season? We asked an authority, Cletus V. Erlacher Jr., and came up with this information:

Drain oil from a four - cycle engine (which takes the oil and the gas separately) by removing the oil filter plug and oil drain plug. When completely empty, replace the drain plug and refill with fresh, clean oil.

Fill the fuel tank with regular gasoline. Do not use high-test or white gas.

Remove the air cleaner. If it is dry - element type, tap the element to remove dust and dirt, or replace if filled completely. If it is of the oil - bath type, remove the cleaner and dispose of the oil by cleaning the cup with a solvent. Refill with fresh oil.

Check for loose nuts and bolts that may cause damage if not tightened. Also, tighten all screws.

If the unit is a self - propelled or riding type, check the belts for fraying and tightness. Make sure the pulleys are free, lubricating if necessary.

Remove the sparkplug to make sure it is clean, not fouled by soot or oil.

Before starting the machine, turn the engine a few times by pulling the starter rope. This allows lubrication to coat the bearings and cylinder walls prior to high speed operation.

If you have an old power mower and think perhaps the engine should be replaced, have a dealer check it.

If the cost of the replacement engine is three - fourths or more of the price of a new mower, better get a new mower. Many dealers will give you a trade - in allowance on the old engine.

Crews Open Work In Spring Cleanup

Incinerator department trucks today launched the annual city-wide spring cleanup drive, collecting refuse in East End.

The collections are being made today in the western section of the First Ward. Continuing work in East End Tuesday, the trucks will make pickups on: Globe St., Etruria St., Cleveland Ave., Palissey St., Wedgewood St., Holliday St., Park Ave., Alpha St., Oakland Ave., Price St., Valley Ave., Elizabeth St., Putnam St., Harvey Ave., Ohio Ave., Michigan Ave. and Little England.

The drive will continue through Friday, May 13. Trucks begin their rounds at 7 each morning, so refuse scheduled for collection should be placed at the curb or property line the night before.

The Quick And Dead

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (AP) — Coast Guardsmen tied a 5 - inch line around a whale's tail and towed it to the beach at Dam Neck. There the supposedly dead whale revived. The line was cut and it swam to sea.

Most Fences Can Be Given Friendly Look

PORTLAND, Or. — How's your good neighbor policy?

One way to test it is by taking a hard look at that fence you're planning to build this summer. Is its design endowed with ill will or good will?

In an effort to regain the sanctity of their back yard, many home owners erect foreboding structures, often called spite fences by the folks living on the other side, to enclose their property.

Now, while no one would dispute the value of a good fence for creating privacy, there's no reason why that fence can't be designed with a built-in smile on both sides. No matter how tall or solid it is, a fence can, and should, always be graceful and charming.

In building a fence which skirts the property's perimeter, one pitfall to avoid is the freight-train look, the fence that marches around the edge of the yard with relentless, repetitious monotony and ends by looking like a barricade.

When dealing with this situation, think in terms of the fence's being composed of units, or screens the height and styling of which can be varied slightly.

On sloping property, for instance, it's a simple matter to avoid the straight - lined look, for sections of the fence can be stepped down the slope of the yard to produce a vari-level design. On flat ground, sections of a perimeter fence can be built in different heights to achieve this effect.

Adding a decorative crown of horizontal louvers or of an open brickwork pattern to certain sections also adds unexpected spice.

A favorite design for the privacy-creating fence is executed with 1-by-6-inch Douglas fir boards set between 4-by-4-inch posts spaced 5 or 6 feet apart. Each section is topped with a 2-by-4 cap board. The 1-by-6s are set vertically and spaced apart an eighth of an inch to allow breezes to circulate.

Though simple in design, this fence style has a delightful, three-dimensional appearance which can be accented by painting its framing, the posts and cap board, a darker shade than the boards. The color used for the house trim could be used for the fence frame, with white or a natural wood shade used for the boards.

Shrubbery planted at intervals along the fence softens the line between fence and ground, as well as making the fence appear an integral part of the landscaping.

MODERN HOMES feature fences with a friendly look. Even a high estate fence, designed to give privacy to the garden and patio, can be a friendly affair, as this one illustrates. One-by-eight Douglas fir boards set in a handsome frame step down slope of yard. Sections at back of yard are crowned with decorative horizontal louvers. White and beige paint make a sparkling foil for shrubbery.

Lana Turner's Daughter, Two Others Elude Police

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Lana Turner's runaway 16-year-old daughter, Cheryl Crane, and two girl companions narrowly escaped capture Sunday night by police staked out at the home of a friend of one of the girls.

Officers said the friend, a former inmate of the county-operated home for girls from which the three escaped Friday night, tipped them over the phone not to show up.

Police gave this account:

A telephone call was received at the friend's house from Donna Wilson, 15, who, with Cheryl Crane and Cheryl Zumbrum, 16, scaled an 11-foot fence and fled the El Retiro home for girls in Sylmar. Sylmar is a few miles north of Hollywood. Long Beach is about 25 miles south.

Donna telephoned her friend that she and the other "will be down tonight after dark."

Officers learned of this, went to the house and waited. Late Sunday night Donna telephoned again. Officers eavesdropping on the line heard her ask her friend: "We're on Pacific Coast Highway—how do we get to your place?"

The friend described the route, then, before officers could stop her blurted: "Don't show up or there will be trouble."

The friend was taken to juvenile headquarters and booked for violation of parole. Officers did not identify her.

In Palm Springs, Calif., Miss Turner's response to this was: "I'm heartsick. Now we just don't have a clue."

The actress placed Cheryl in the county home six weeks ago for what Miss Turner termed psychiatric therapy.

Two years ago Cheryl fatally stabbed Johnny Stompanato, Miss Turner's hoodlum lover, in the actress' bedroom. Miss Turner testified Stompanato had threatened her, Cheryl and Miss Turner's mother. A coroner's jury returned a verdict of justifiable homicide.

CD Alert Set Tuesday In Test Of CONELRAD

A Civil Defense test of CONELRAD — special radio frequencies assigned for use in event of enemy attack — will be held Tuesday afternoon between 2 and 2:30 when stations throughout the nation will halt broadcasting on their regular frequencies.

Police Chief Harold Davis of Chester, CD director, said a fire siren will sound at 2 p. m. to remind residents to listen to the CONELRAD frequencies 640 and 1240 kilocycles.

Members of the 31st Mobile Support Group are to report to their platoon leaders by telephone during the half hour test, part of a nationwide alert.

A dozen varieties of onions have been developed to grow to a more uniform size for easier handling, and with heavier scales to withstand machine jostling, says the College of Agriculture at the University of Wisconsin.

Safety Checks Set On Wellsville Cars

The Wellsville Fraternal Order of Police and FOP Associates Lodges will open their annual auto safety check Tuesday noon on Main St. in front of City Hall.

The lodges hold the free checks annually to show motorists what parts need repairs on their cars.

Capt. Pete Trainer is in charge of the campaign this year. He said the check lanes will be set up at various spots in Wellsville during the week through Friday. The check will continue on through next week if enough motorists are interested, he said.

Members of Wellsville High School Key Club also will assist. If a car passes the inspection, a sticker will be put on the windshield. Each vehicle will be inspected for brakes, steering, lights, window glass, muffler, horn and stop lights.

Banners will be erected each day directing motorists to the sites, Tranier said.

The check lane will be kept open from 6 to 8 hours daily.

Care Needed For Tile Wall

By DOUGLAS TUOMEY
Written For Bell Syndicate

While real ceramic tiled walls have been giving way to tiled wallboard, there are thousands of bathrooms and kitchens in which the real tile is still in use, and more often than not in need of repairing.

When the joints between the tiles have fallen out they should be replaced as soon as possible because it spoils the appearance of a wall and means that the balance of the joint will soon follow.

A pointing - trowel is the proper tool to use on this work. The new material can be bought by the package, usually under the name of patching plaster, although some caulking compounds are also satisfactory.

The first step is to scratch out any loose joint material and dust out the crevice. Next step is to wet the crevice thoroughly if you are using patching plaster, but not if you are using compound.

The new mix should be poked in to make a full joint and struck off neatly with the trowel. After this has set hard, any excess should be wiped off at once with a wet cloth. Some workmen prefer plaster - of - Paris for this work, but it sets up so hard and so rapidly that it is not recommended for the average person.

When a tile has come off completely it can usually be replaced with ease by coating the back of it with any of the good cements now available and pressing it back in place. The repointing of the joints can follow as instructed above.

Real tile work is expensive to replace, so it should be treated and maintained accordingly.

2 Motorists Injured In Hookstown Crash

A Hookstown R. D. 1 motorist and a Shippingport man were treated at City Hospital Sunday about 3:05 p. m. for minor injuries received in a two-car accident Sunday at the intersection of Routes 30 and 168 near Hookstown.

Charles Liston, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Liston of Hookstown R. D. 1, received a possible neck injury. He returned today to the hospital for X-rays. The other driver was William Johnson, 34, of Shippingport, who suffered a puncture wound of the forearm.

According to the hospital report, Liston's auto was stalled and Johnson ran into the rear of it.

'Information Dinner' Tonight

Expansion Program Set By Osteopathic Hospital

A public information dinner relative to an expansion program will be held tonight by the East Liverpool Osteopathic Hospital.

Between 150 and 200 community leaders are expected to attend the event, which will begin at 6:30 in the home of American Legion Post 4 on E. 4th St.

In a letter mailed last week, Dr. John W. Hayes, president of the Board of Trustees and hospital administrator, pointed out that the hospital "is confronted with the need of expanding its facilities from 28 to 50 beds".

The trustees, in announcing the campaign, explained that the Osteopathic Hospital is a "non-profit" institution which cares for all persons "regardless of race or creed". It has a staff of six doctors.

Dr. Hayes said there will be no solicitation of funds during the dinner meeting tonight.

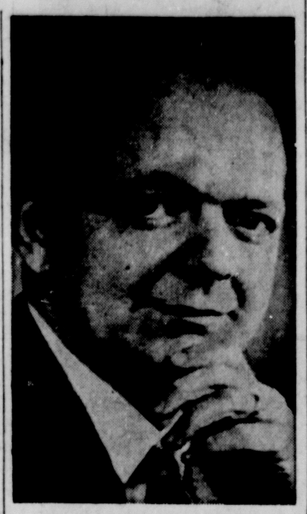
Dr. George W. Northup of Morristown, N. J., past president of the American Osteopathic Association, will be the principal speaker, with his subject "Partnership In Health".

Dr. Hayes will discuss "The Past, Present and The Future" and James Locke, a member of the Board of Trustees, "A Sound Investment".

Glenn B. Roberts will be toastmaster.

The invocation will be by the Rev. M. Rudolph Miller of the Trinity United Presbyterian Church and the benediction by the Rev. Thomas G. Mulhearn of St. Aloysius Catholic Church.

Dr. Northup, a native of Syracuse, N. Y., is a second-generation member of the osteopathic profession. His father, aunt and two cousins were doctors of osteopathy before him. Part of his childhood was spent in Kirksville, Mo., site of the first osteopathic college.



DR. GEORGE W. NORTHUP
Will Speak At Meeting.

He did his undergraduate work at Drew University, Madison, N.J., and was graduated from the Philadelphia College of Osteopathy in 1939. Two years of graduate study at the school under the supervision of the New Jersey state board of medical examiners preceded the establishment of his practice in 1941.

He is a member of the First Baptist Church of Morristown and was a charter member of Linvingston Lodge 289 of the Masons. He is a member of the staff of West Essex General Hospital, serving as chairman of the Department of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation.

'Spendthrift' Threat Aired For Chamber

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Commerce Frederick H. Mueller cautioned today that the "soaring 60s" could turn into the "slump 60s" if the government pursues a course of borrowing and spending.

In an address prepared for the 48th annual meeting of the United States Chamber of Commerce, Mueller predicted 1960 would be the most prosperous year, and the 1960s the most prosperous decade, in history.

But this will depend, he said, on keeping private enterprise free from "excessive government-made burdens and from a fatal dose of inflation."

Several thousand businessmen and guests, opening the three-day chamber convention, were to hear also an informal talk by President Eisenhower.

Mueller said he was proud to speak for a Republican administration which strives to "maintain a climate favorable to private initiative."

"During the last seven years, the American people have had more jobs, more new homes, new schools, new hospitals and higher income than in any previous seven years," Mueller said.

"The gross national product is close to 500 billion dollars — the all-time record. Business responsibility today is to help America to stay on that right course."

But the secretary told the delegates that the 290-billion-dollar federal debt, plus future commitments on government projects, plus the liabilities building up against government retirement and pension funds and other obligations, "amount to a mortgage on future earnings of nearly three-fourths of a trillion dollars."

"Yet with all those obligations hovering over this decade, the spendthrift chorus has not yet lost its voice," Mueller said.

Murder Charges Will Be Filed In Ohio Death Case

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP)—Sheriff Harley Wornstaff said first-degree murder charges would be filed today against a suspect in the death of Grove City bartender David L. Crishbaum, whose bullet-riddled, stab-punctured body was found in some woods early Saturday.

Wornstaff, after hours of questioning the suspect, said Sunday night the 26-year-old former Mansfield Reformatory inmate from Columbus offered conflicting alibis and that a paraffin test on his hands showed he had fired a gun.

The man was arrested Saturday night. He reportedly had accompanied Crishbaum, 34, Thursday when the bartender left the Melfi Cafe, Columbus, where he worked, to purchase sales tax stamps at the Franklin County Courthouse and liquor for the cafe at a state wholesale warehouse. The victim was not seen thereafter.

The $203 in cafe money Crishbaum carried on his errands was not on his person when his body was found, shot five times and stabbed thrice, early Saturday in south Delaware County near the Franklin County line. The tax stamps were, but the liquor order had not been filled.

The suspect was arrested in a 35-year - old Columbus Woman's apartment and she, presently held in Columbus City Prison, will be charged with being a material witness, Wornstaff indicated.

Exams Slated For Road-E-O

The dates for the written examination and driving test of the annual Teenage Safe Driving Road-E-O contest were announced today by Delmar Manning, chairman.

The project is sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce in co-operation with the Standard Oil Co.

Entry blanks may be obtained at East Liverpool High School and Beaver Local High School. Manning said the written exam will be given Wednesday, May 11, at 1 p. m. at both schools. The driving test will be conducted Sunday, May 15, at the Loblaw parking lot.

The event is open to area youths who are single and under 19. The Road-E-O is a test of driving skill and knowledge of driving regulations designed to provide an opportunity for youngsters to demonstrate their abilities as safe operators of motor cars.

The local winner will receive a trophy and a cash prize. There will be a first, second and third place winner in both the boys' and girls' divisions.

The champion boy and girl will participate in the state event June 5 at Warren. State winners will receive cash scholarships donated by Sohio.

The scholarship funds are $1,000 for first place boy and girl, $500 for second place, and $200 for third place winners.

Last year, Jaycees conducted the Road-E-O in 130 Ohio communities. More than 7,500 boys and girls participated in the written exams, 3,500 took the driving tests and 221 competed in the state finals.

Street Department Can't Satisfy Everyone

LOCKPORT, N. Y. (AP) — Notified by police that a motorist had complained of hitting a large hole on a bridge over the State Barge Canal here, the city streets department promptly covered it with a barrel.

Police then reported a motorist complained of hitting a barrel on the same bridge. Streets Supt. Ralph Loomis said a flare would be added to the barrel until repairs — to barrel and pavement —could be made.

Search Continues In City Check Case

City police and Sheriff Russell Van Fossan's office today continued to hunt for a man who attempted to pass three payroll checks Friday night and Saturday, drawn on a city firm, but left when service station attendants and a laundry worker became suspicious.

Police Chief Americo J. Radeschi said all three checks were drawn on the Chamberlin Machine & Welding Co., 674 Green Ln.

A checkwriter had been used to stamp in the amount of $32.10. Using ordinary checks, the passer had typewritten in the name and address of the company as well as the name of the payee and the alleged secretary of the firm, the chief said. Both names apparently were phony, the chief explained.

On Saturday, he attempted to cash a similar check at a laundry but again departed when the woman employe said she would have to check with the manager. He next turned up at a Sub-Station store on Routes 7 and 30 and tried to have an attendant cash a check. However, the attendant checked with his employer and the operator began to check with the company when the passer fled.

Single Injury Reported For County Roads

A Toronto man suffered a nose injury when the car in which he was a passenger collided with another on Route 30 in one of three weekend mishaps reported by the State Highway Patrol at Lisbon.

A car driven by Anna Yanklowski, 45, of 1317 Madison Ave., Toronto, pulled from Route 7 onto Route 30 north of Cannons Mills Sunday morning at 10:30 and collided with a car operated by Joseph Hundzienki, 23, of Cannonsburg, Pa., headed north on Route 30.

Frank Yanklowski, 48, of Toronto, passenger in the woman's car, was treated by a Toronto physician for a possible fractured nose. Both cars received considerable damage, according to officers, who cited her for failure to yield the right-of-way.

In another Route 30 mishap about seven miles south of Lisbon last night, a car driven by Robert Stokesberry, 30, of Bethel Park, Pa., struck the rear of one operated by Lawrence Meli, 16, of Allenport, Pa., who was making a turn.

Stokesberry was charged with failure to stop in the assured clear distance.

How Much Do You Know About Mortuary Services?
★ PROCEDURES, COSTS?
★ YOUR RESPONSIBILITIES?
There are good reasons why everyone should be familiar with mortuary details and customs.
For one thing, you never know when you might have to act for the family or help friends with a funeral arrangement. For another, you never know what special conditions you might have to face. An accident, or a death far from home — perhaps overseas — frequently poses some knotty problems. Still a third good reason lies in the fact that some pre-knowledge greatly reduces your mental stress in a difficult period—and most important—helps you to guard against overspending.
We have the answers to the problems you'll face, and we've put them all in a handy little pocket-size booklet for you.

Pirates Display Power Again, Stretch Winning Streak To 9

Phillips Homers Twice In Opener As Indians Sweep A's

Law Wins Fourth Game In 13-2 Rout Of Reds; Bucs Eye 10th Tonight

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

The pre-season line on Pittsburgh read: "Sound defense, good speed; thin pitching, lacks power." This is the same club that scored 12 runs Saturday and 13 runs Sunday while stretching its winning streak to nine games, the club's longest since 1944.

What happened?

The batting averages tell part of the story: Smoky Burgess, .438 Roberto Clemente, .377. Dick Groat, .349. Bob Skinner, .327. The pitching records tell the rest: Vern Law 4-0, Bob Friend 3-0.

Law has come into his own to gain belated recognition as one of the very best pitchers in the National League. Overshadowed by Friend in previous years, Law compiled a brilliant 18-9 season last year only to play second fiddle to Elroy Face's sensational relief pitching (18-1).

There has been no stopping Law this season. His fourth straight Sunday was a sound nine-hitter over Cincinnati 13-2. He grew steadily better as the game went on, allowing only three harmless singles after the third inning.

Clemente got the Pirates off winging with a bases loaded home run off Don Newcombe in the first inning. Bill Mazeroski followed with a three-run homer in the eighth.

Pittsburgh's Sunday victory opened up a two-game lead on idle San Francisco which, like Los Angeles, had an unusual Sunday open date.

Billy Bruton collected five hits, including his first homer of the year, in Milwaukee's 5-4 victory over Philadelphia. Don McMahon rescued Lew Burdette in the ninth after a three-run rally had left the Phils only one short of a tie.

Tony Taylor was the big man for the Chicago Cubs, driving in three runs with his four hits in a 5-4 decision over St. Louis. Don Elston's fine relief work as the third Cub pitcher saved the victory for starter Glen Hobbie.

Chicago took over the undisputed American League lead for the first time by whipping Detroit twice 6-3 and 5-2. Cleveland swept a pair from Kansas City 6-4 and 3-1 and Baltimore whipped New York 9-5. A Washington-Boston doubleheader was rained out.

Tribe Rookies, Hawkins And Stigman Go Route In First Home Stand

WASHINGTON (AP) — Solid pitching by two rookies gave the Cleveland Indians a double victory over the Kansas City Athletics Sunday and propelled them from the American League cellar to a second-place tie with the New York Yankees.

The 6-4 and 3-1 victories completed a four-game sweep against the A's and left the Tribe just one game behind the league - leading Chicago White Sox.

Wynn Hawkins and Dick Stigman, each 24 and making his first appearance in Cleveland Municipal Stadium, each went the route.

Hawkins, in the opener, was less impressive than in his 2-1 victory last week over Detroit. But he got plenty of help, Bubba Phillips knocking in five runs with two homers. Hawkins gave up 10 hits, including back-to-back home runs by Norm Siebern and Whitey Herzog.

Stigman, making his first major league start, twirled a six-hitter and would have blanked the A's except for a wild throw by Woodie Held in the eighth inning.

The lanky southpaw struck out six, walked four and wasn't in serious trouble until the ninth inning, when the A's loaded the bases with two out. Stigman got pinch-hitter Bob Johnson to fly out to end the game.

Stigman scored the first run in that game. He singled in the fifth inning, Vic Power sacrificed, and Stigman barreled home on Johnny Temple's line single to center.

The throw from Bill Tuttle was in time, but Stigman rammed catcher Harry Chiti, who dropped the ball.

The Indians added two more in the sixth, when three walks filled the bases. Power's single scored Jimmy Piersall and Phillips.

The A's scored their only run when Pete Daley hit a pinch double and came home on Held's error. Woodie took Jerry Lumpe's single to deep short and threw wild to first.

The loss was charged to George Brunet, who was removed for a pinch-hitter in the eighth.

The Indians gave Hawkins a 3-0 lead in the second inning. Phillips hit his first home run of the season into the left field stands, scoring Tito Francona and Walter Bond ahead of him.

Phillips' second homer, in the fourth inning, scored Bond and made it 5-0.

The A's picked up one run in the fifth on a pinch double by Daley and a single by Tuttle and two runs in the sixth when Herzog and Siebern homered.

The sixth Indian run came on a triple by Power and a single by Temple off reliefer Marty Kutyna in the seventh inning. Siebern retorted with an eighth inning homer.

Ned Garver, Kansas City starter, was the loser.

Cincinnati Hits Bottom After Sweep By Pirates

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds will have to snap out of their slump by their own efforts—take it from General Manager Gabe Paul.

"Looks like we'll have to sweat it out and develop our own pitching to match the high quality of the rest of the club," he said.

The Reds landed in last place Sunday after the Pittsburgh Pirates shocked them 13-2 at Crosley Field.

Cincinnati had a couple of miscues and Pittsburgh had the edge in hits, 12-9. The big trouble—pitching.

Vernon Law, the shrewd 30-year-old righthander, went all the way. After the third inning, the Reds got only three harmless singles off him.

The Reds used 17 pitchers in the four games here with the Braves and Pirates and a total of 57 pitchers in all 15 games this season.

Birdie Tebbetts, former Red Manager now a Milwaukee official said last week, "I know just what Hutch (Manager Fred Hutchinson) is experiencing. I had to look at it for five years.

"I recall the time one Cincinnati club I had won 12 games in a row. Everybody in Cincinnati said that was very good. What was good about it? To win 12 games in a row I had to use 27 pitchers."

Consecutive doubles by Vada Pinson and Gus Bell brought one run back in the first inning.

And after Frank Robinson collected a third inning walk, Ed Bailey doubled him in. But that ended Cincinnati scoring.

In the ninth, singles by Skinner, Burgess, Virdon and Mazeroski, mingled with an error and a walk brought in four more Pirate runs.

Course Is Lengthened For U.S. Open Action

DENVER (AP) — The nation's top golfers will tackle the fifth-longest course in U.S. Open history when the three-day medal play test opens at Cherry Hills June 16.

The course has been lengthened to 7,004 yards and par cut to 35-36—71. It will be longer, and probably tougher, than when the first U. S. Open ever held in Colorado was played at Cherry Hills in 1938.

Warren 1st At Bellaire

BELLAIRE — Paul Warfield led Warren High's track and field team to a 39-38 victory over Cleveland John Adams to capture the sixth annual Bellaire Relays here Saturday afternoon.

Warren came out on top in a field of 33 teams. East Liverpool scored its lone point when Bob Mackall placed fifth in the broad jump.

Mackall's jump was measured at 20 feet, 5 inches. The Potter star failed to qualify in the 100-yard dash.

Warfield was the top point scorer of the meet with 19. He set a new record of 19.2 in the low hurdles, won the broad jump with a leap of 22 feet and tied the 100-yard dash record in 10 flat.

In the freshmen meet, East Liverpool Westgate finished fifth in the 880-yard relay event with a clocking of 1.44.

The Potter track team, undefeated in two dual meets, will shoot for its third win Wednesday against Struthers at Patterson Field.

Potters, Wintersville Open Sectional Play

A victory by the Potters would put them against the winner of the Steubenville Central-Jefferson Union game on Tuesday at 3 p. m. at the Bellview Field. The Potters have a 1-8 record after dropping a 7-2 decision to Toronto on Friday.

Collins Holds Slim Lead Over Palmer At Houston

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Big, blond Bill Collins, who claims he doesn't even think of the pressure, led the Houston Classic golf tournament into its final round today but the story still was: Will Arnold Palmer make it six?

Collins, the man from Baltimore who plays his golf out of Crystal River, Fla., shot a 4-under-par 68 Sunday to snare the lead by two strokes over Palmer, the Masters champion from Ligonier, Pa., who has won five tournaments this year and is the greatest money earner for the period involved in golfing history. He has banked $44,257.57.

Collins had 205 for 54 holes. Palmer, who shot a 70 in the third round, had 207.

This is not a very long lead for a fellow having to fight off the hottest man in golf today. But Collins professed not to be thinking of the pressure.

Collins attributed his showing here largely to a driver he borrowed from his golfing friend, Fred Gronauer of Briarcliff, N.Y. "I was driving so badly with my No. 1 wood that I often used a No. 1 iron until I got this driver," Collins declared.

Palmer was looking at the scoreboard Sunday when he came to the eighteenth green. He was finishing just ahead of Collins and at that time was three strokes behind. He ran down an 18-foot putt for a birdie and looked confident as he strode off the green.

12 Await Test In Derby Trial

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Twelve or 13 horses whose owners are hoping they'll show something worthy of a place in the Kentucky Derby are expected to vie Tuesday in the Derby Trial at Churchill Downs.

However, there is plenty of support for the contention that the Derby winner isn't scheduled for a start in the one mile trial.

"The Derby's a two-horse race now," said trainer Jimmy Jones of Calumet Farm. "If you can pick right between Bally Ache and Tompion, you've got the winner. The rest of us are just shooting for third and fourth monies."

Bally Ache picked up backers on the strength of his impressive 3-length win over Venetian Way in the 7-furlong Stepping Stone Saturday. Tompion, winner of Thursday's Blue Grass Stakes at Keeneland, has been the winter book favorite for the 86th run for the roses.

Neither is expected to run again before Saturday.

Calumet, which has furnished seven Derby winners, will have the entry of Hillsborough and Pied D'Or going in the trial. Others expected to race are Bourbon Prince, Beau Purple, Spring Broker, Yomolka, El Zag, Fighting Hodge, Effonlyi, Cuvier Relic, Orbit's Top and Command Pilot. Eagle Admiral is a doubtful starter.

Thomas Pushes Mark To 7 Feet, 1½ Inches In Penn Relays

High Jumping Star Betters Russian Mark

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — John Thomas, a solemn-faced youngster of 19, can relax now and watch the others try to catch up to him because he has finally become the world high jump champion.

Even though there's no one who comes even remotely close—that includes the Soviets—Thomas was strictly second best according to the books until he soared 7 feet, 1½ inches at the Penn Relays Saturday.

He's a quiet one, this 6-5, 194-pound Boston University sophomore, but it had been a source of annoyance to him that Yuri (Elevator Shoe) Stepanov of the Soviet Union was down as the recognized world champion with a 7-1 mark.

That Stepanov was on his mind there could be no doubt. Hardly had he picked himself up after his record leap than he murmured: "It's nice to have the record back in the United States."

Even more galling to him was the fact that even though Stepanov's record was accepted by the International Amateur Athletic Federation, the body promptly ruled out the type of shoes used by the Soviet. They had built-up soles which most coaches thought added an inch to his potential.

There won't be any argument about Thomas' standard, which, incidentally, was set under miserable weather conditions. A strong breeze was blowing, clouds hung low over Franklin Field and a heavy drizzle was falling.

BOSTON UNIVERSITY freshman John Thomas (right) watches tensely as track judges confirm by measurement that he has jumped 7 feet, 1½ inches to set a new world's high jump record. The old record of 7 feet, 1 inch was held by a Russian, Yuri Stepanov. (UPI Telephoto)

Venditti To Screen Army-Navy Movies

Coach Lou Venditti will screen movies of last year's Army-Navy football game when the Blue and White Nonpareil Club meets Tuesday night at 8 in the YMCA.

The Potter coach today received four reels of film from the game played at Philadelphia. Potter football players and fans are invited to the meeting. Ralph Musuraca, president, will conduct business.

Swifty Wins 75-Mile Homing Club Race

Victor Giovenco's Baldy and Frisky were second and third respectively. The next race is a 100-mile test from Newark next Sunday.

Leaders Hold Pace

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — All the early leaders save one are still ahead in the Ohio Women's Bowling Tournament with four weekends to go. The Clippers of Columbus took the handicap team lead late Saturday night with a 2,390 actual pinfall plus 708 handicap producing a 3,098 total. The previous leader, White-Gisinger of Wooster, held the top spot since Feb. 13 when they rolled a handicap 3,070.

White Sox Take Pair From Detroit To Grab Lead In American League

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

When Frank Lane traded away Cal McLish, his 19-game winner, the Cleveland Indians announced that they were going to gamble with young pitchers.

Wynn Hawkins and Dick Stigman, two 24-year-old members of the 1960 rookie crop, made General Manager Lane and Manager Joe Gordon look good Sunday when they managed complete games in a doubleheader sweep over Kansas City.

Hawkins, of New Waterford, Ohio, a right-hander from the Mobile farm, allowed 10 hits but lasted nine innings to win his second game 6-4 with the help of five runs batted in on two homers by Bubba Phillips.

Stigman, a southpaw out of San Diego, turned in a steady six-hit effort in the 3-1 second game, won by Vic Powers's two-run single.

Despite the success of these precocious Indians, the defending champion Chicago White Sox took over the undisputed American League lead for the first time this season. The White Sox whipped Detroit 6-3 and 5-2 on the relief pitching of Gerry Staley and Frank Baumann.

Baltimore's young Chuck Estrada survived a three-run first inning and went all the way to a 9-5 decision over the New York Yankees. A Washington-Boston doubleheader was rained out.

In the National League, Pittsburgh won its ninth straight, humbling Cincinnati again 13-2. It was the longest Pirate winning streak since 1944. Milwaukee edged Philadelphia 5-4 and Chicago shaded St. Louis 5-4. Los Angeles and San Francisco had an open date.

Hawkins might have needed relief if it hadn't been for Phillips' slugging. He was nicked for two homers by Norm Siebern and one by Whitey Herzog among the 10 Kansas City hits. The Indians piled up an early lead off loser Ned Garver.

Stigman helped himself in the second game. He started a rally with a single to open the fifth. After a sacrifice and a single by Johnny Temple, the pitcher bumped into catcher Harry Chiti at the plate and the catcher dropped the ball. The only run off the lefty was unearned.

Nieder Boosts His Hopes For Olympics In New Win

DES MOINES, Iowa. (AP) — Ever had a good look at those fellows who can throw a 16-pound shot more than 60 feet?

They are silent when performing.

Set to throw, they take a big gulp of air. They crouch. They spring across the ring. They give a last, mighty effort. Up, up, out and out goes the shot. Down it thuds, burying itself in the sod.

"Wow!" roared the crowd at the Drake Relays which saw Bill Nieder, Parry O'Brien and Dave Davis' send the shot past the 60-foot mark 12 times.

None had a legal put of less than 60 feet.

Nieder, the smallest of the trio at 240 pounds, won the AAU event Saturday with a record toss of 63-11½, but still far back of his best throw of 65-7.

O'Brien, two-time Olympic winner, was second with 63-1¼. Davis, who has a throw of 64-10 to his credit, could manage only 61-9¼.

He was voted the meet's outstanding performer as rain and 45-degree weather hampered other athletes.

Other new marks were a 15 feet ¼ inch pole vault by Oklahoma's J.D. Martin; Central Michigan's college mile relay of 3:12.2, and a 14:35.7 5,000-meter run by Bud Edelen of Minneapolis in the first running of the event at Drake.

Grand Circuit Events Begin

By The Associated Press

The Grand Circuit, major league of harness horse racing, starts distributing a record $4,213,000 tonight with the opening of a two-week stand at Roosevelt Raceway.

The Rorin' Grand, which brings together the best of the nation's trotters and pacers in most of the richest races, will conduct 23 weeks of racing during 1960 at 21 tracks.

Three new members have joined the circuit this year. They are Suffolk Downs, Northfield, Ohio, and Baltimore Raceway.

Following two weeks at Roosevelt, the Grand Circuit drivers and horses will move on to Rosecroft Raceway at Oxon Hill, Md. for a week's stay, May 30-June 4. Then follows Baltimore Raceway, Hazel Park, Bay State Raceway, Sarasota Raceway, Historic Track at Goshen, N.Y., Vernon Downs, Yonkers Raceway, Northfield, Chicago Downs, Springfield, Ill., Sedalia, Mo., DuQuoin, Ill., Indianapolis, Wolverine Raceway, Delaware, Ohio, Lexington, Ky., Arden Downs at Washington, Pa., Suffolk Downs and Hollywood Park.

The two richest stakes during the Grand Circuit's sojourn at Roosevelt are the $30,000 Lady Maud for 3-year-old pacing fillies May 13 and the $150,000 Messenger for all 3-year-old pacers May 14.

Last Saturday's richest race, the $25,000 Free-for-All Pace at Roosevelt, saw Widower Creed make a slight dent in the advantage held over him by Bye Bye Byrd, champion harness horse of 1959. Widower Creed came from far back in the last half-mile for a 3½-length triumph over Bye Bye Byrd with a 2:00 4-5 mile clocking. Their personal duel over two years now stands 8-3 in favor of Bye Bye Byrd.

Lebanon, Ohio, which opened with Wildwood Bill taking the feature on Saturday, announced plans for an invitation pace each Friday night and an invitation trot on Saturday. Each will be worth $1,000.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Don't Make Child 'Promise' To Obey

After he had rebuked the tot for running his toy car on the davenport, I heard a father say to his son, three: "Will you promise not to do that again?" A little later the child repeated the act. Then the father threatened to punish him, saying, "You lied to me. You promised not to do that again." Silently I wished that Dad had not asked his son to promise not to repeat the forbidden act. Even after he had exacted the promise, I wished he had not said anything about it, but had instead turned the tot over his knee and give him a whack or two.

By Garry Meyer.

Many a parent, after punishing a tot by spanking or chair-sitting, will exact from him the promise: "I won't do it again."

WHAT ELSE could the tot do but make the required promise? What would you do in his place?

Having made the promise, he's in danger of being punished again for two reasons, should he repeat the offense—for disobedience and for lying.

When you are sure you should punish your child, do it decisively. Make sure he connects the punishment with the offense. But when the punishment is ended, don't ask him to promise not to repeat the offense.

What about the child six to 12? I can see no sense in exacting from him, after punishment, the promise "never to do it again."

Suppose he had done something in your presence which you consider very wrong and you try to impress him with the seriousness of it. Why make him promise not to repeat the offense?

IF YOU DON'T feel sure he senses from your explanation the gravity of the deed, you might wisely tell him exactly what the penalty will be for repetition. There's nothing wrong with such a threat if it is reasonable, can be enforced and if you make sure it will be enforced.

The objection to most threats is that they usually are made in haste and passion, are unreasonable, unenforceable, or unlikely to be enforced. Many of the laws on our statute books are threats. They state the penalty not only for repetition of certain deeds but for doing them the first time.

Also, there are some things you wish your child either to do nor not do in your absence. So you are tempted to require him to promise to abide by your wishes.

But there are so many ways he can break such promises, without being apprehended, that it's doubtful whether they ever should have been exacted of him.

SOMETIMES, BUT very rarely, we might wisely tell the child, six to 12, even the teen - ager, about his behavior away from us—things we wish he would or would not do. Yet our greatest hope is to guide the child so well in our presence, in an atmosphere of family love and understanding, that he might choose of his own accord to do right in our absence.

My bulletins, "Honesty and Truthfulness in Children" and "A Parent's Prayer," may be had by sending a self - addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Mystery Dieter May Help Teen-Agers

Calling all overweight teen-agers. It's never fun to be fat, but it's terrible in your teens, according to your letters. National Youth Fitness Week is the ideal time to get your food habits on the beam and whip into shape - ups.

By Ida Jean Kain

Do you really want to slim down, tone up, and be happy, healthy weight? Your dietitian has a model for you to follow ... a Mystery Dieter. Meet Ruth, who wrote . . .

"A couple of years back your column gave the reports of a mystery dieter. The idea sparked enthusiasm and others joined her. If you would consent, I should like to be this year's Mystery Dieter.

"I'm 17, a senior in high school and tip the scales at 154 pounds, which is about 20 pounds overweight for my rather large, 5'6" frame.

"I WOULD LIKE to be a mystery dieter because I think it might encourage others to slim down. It is easier to follow a diet when one knows there are other teens in the same pickle, who are trying to do something about it.

"My goal is to lose one and a half to two pounds each week until I reach the ultimate goal, 130 pounds. Thank you for your wonderful help through hour column—both psychological and nutritional."

Overweight teens, both boys and girls ... when you read Ruth's words, if you think to yourself, this is it ... a challenge is just what I've been waiting for, then start today. Your aim is to be fit, not fat.

Ruth is 24 pounds above ideal weight. You may be more overweight, or less. The number of pounds or inches you have to lose is actually less important than your attitude toward taking action. If you are willing to put some eager young enthusiasm into this project, I can promise you unexpected rewards.

Here's the first hurdle: To discipline your appetite — stop stuffing! If you've got what it takes to get up from the dinner table while you could still eat a lot more, you can be a winner!

THE DIET RULES: Eat breakfast, including an egg and a glass of skim milk, or a bowl of cereal with milk. No doughnuts or sweets. Nothing more until lunchtime. Eat a good lunch with fruit for dessert.

After school have a banana and a glass of skim milk, a big red apple, or a juicy orange. Eat a good dinner, but again have fruit for dessert. Nothing after dinner except a soft drink without calories, if you wish.

Tomorrow we'll start the exercise shape-ups. Hereafter our Mystery Dieter will report once a week.

Send a long, self - addressed, stamped envelope for "Teen - Age Slimming Challenge." Address your request to Ida Jean Kain, in care of this newspaper. Post card requests can not be answered.

Burglars Play It Safe By Holding Workshop

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla (AP)—A weekend workshop in cracking safes was held by burglars who broke into the Ballam Safe Co.

In Night Club Gun Duel Kent Man, 30, Is Slain

KENT, Ohio (AP) — Albert P. McCray, 30, of Kent, was shot and killed in a night club gun battle early Sunday. Officials ruled that Earl B. Hilliday, owner of the El Dorado Club, shot McCray in self-defense.

Police said McCray fired seven shots at the club owner as Holliday called police in connection with McCray's refusal to pay for a drink he had ordered. Holliday grabbed a pistol and fired four times at McCray, hitting him once. The club owner was not held.

Case Receives Grant

CLEVELAND (AP)—Case Institute of Technology has received a grant of $100,000 from the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation for an expanded program in the field of management. Dr. John A. Hrones, vice president for academic affairs, said the grant "will allow expansion in research in solving the problems of industry. . . and in the advance training of men already in industry."

Quizzed In Stabbing

CINCINNATI (AP)—Police say Mrs. Bertha Locker, 35, told them she toured bars Saturday with James Riggs Bedford but she can't remember what happened after an argument in his apartment. Bedford, 41, a painter, was found stabbed to death early Sunday at the foot of stairs leading to the apartment. Officers said a paring knife found in the apartment caused the fatal wound. No charge was filed immediately.

How Can I

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. What is a mixture I can prepare for the removal of old paint and varnish from woodwork?

A. Apply with a rag a mixture of two parts of spirits of ammonia and one of turpentine. In difficult places, apply with a handbrush. Don't forget the sandpaper when removing paint or varnish.

Q. How can I renew and restore the colors to a rug?

A. By putting a little ammonia in a large bowl of fresh water and letting it stand in the room overnight.

THANKS:

To The Fine
People Of The Tri-State Area:

Four years ago

today we opened our doors with the hopes and dreams of becoming an established, successful, and respected business in this great industrial area. Since that time we have tried to please you, the public, by offering, not wild claims, but good reconditioned used cars at a fair price, and by selling our new Fords without tremendous mark-up. We have tried to give the best service possible by our factory trained mechanics.

We are obtaining success even beyond our dreams. Just recently we have become known as one of the top volume dealers in this area. This is due to the fact, that we aren't out to make a "fast buck" by selling 4 or 5 cars, but would rather offer you the cars at a lower price, thus making it possible for us to sell more.

To show our appreciation, we are offering cars to you at an unusually low price. I hope that each and every one of you will find the car that you have been looking for. They're all clean and in good mechanical condition.

Now, at this time, we at WELLS MOTOR would like to take a second to thank each and every one of you from the bottom of our hearts for making the past years so successful. We hope we may, in the future, humbling continue to maintain and win your respect and friendship.

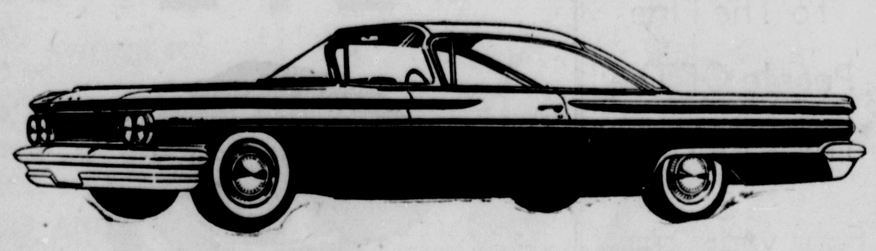
THE HOTTEST CAR VALUE IN ALL AMERICA



The PONTIAC 1960

PONTIAC — "CAR OF THE YEAR" IN 1959 IS MAKING EVEN BIGGER HEADLINES IN 1960!

A champion repeats a spectacular performance! It was PONTIAC in '59; It's PONTIAC again in '60. Here's the car that has won the hearts of America .... the car that gives you the new feeling of confidence behind the wheel, thanks to PONTIAC'S exclusive wide-track design .... the car that has been literally "burning-up" speed tracks all across the country (and without a sacrifice of economy, too). The car that will hold its value in tomorrow's used car market even better than did its record breaking predecessor which astounded the entire industry. Don't put it off, come in and test drive a 1960 PONTIAC today and discover for yourself why PONTIAC is called the "Hottest car value in America".

In Ohio's 88 Counties

Appraisal Uniformity Still Sought

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Despite three attempts at statewide equalization and continuing study of land and building values in each of the 88 counties, state tax officials admit much remains to be done to bring about uniformity and equality of property tax appraisal in Ohio.

It is this appraised figure—nowhere elose to the true value of the property in dollars and cents—against which the property tax of 10 mills, a penny, is levied.

Beyond that, the amount levied depends on what the voters have authorized. In Addison Twp., Kyger Creek Local School District, of Gallia County, property owners pay just a fraction over the 10 mills on the dollar—$ .0103, or $10.30 per thousand—because of the huge electric plant there.

But in residential Shaker Heights, property owners pay more than five cents on the dollar in the city school district, or $50.90 per $1,000 assessed valuation. There are no big industries paying taxes there.

In between these extremes are the rest of Ohio's tax-paying property owners. The problem is that identical buildings and land in separate counties may not be valued the same for tax purposes. And there have been cases where a farmer's land spanned a county line and was appraised at higher value on one side than the other, despite being the same soil used for the same purpose on both sides.

The state tax department contends that it is doing its best to prevent these discrepancies.

"We have no axes to grind," says Ferd F. Becker, chief of the County Affairs Section. "We're just trying to bring about uniformity and equality of appraisal between different classes of property within a county and among the 88 counties. That's the goal—uniformity and equality. We hammer at that."

However, adds Hugh Jenkins, chairman of the State Board of Tax Appeals, irate property owners are apt to blame the county auditor.

"We tell them: 'Don't blame him, blame us,'" Jenkins says. "State law calls for a re-appraisal of real estate in the county once in each six-year period. County auditors must arrange for it or the tax appeals board can notify the state auditor to withhold payments from the local government fund."

Jenkins and Becker agree that some of the problems involved are:

1. The fact that not all counties conduct their re-appraisals at the same time or use the same construction cost basis.

2. Rising prices and varying costs in varying geographical areas.

3. Reluctance of some auditors to get on with the job, and public misunderstanding.

The first situation comes up to some extent because the law says only that a reappraisal must be made during a six-year period. (It used to say "every six years," but it was found that counties with large populations need longer than a year to complete the job.) So, all counties aren't working on the re-appraisal at the same time.

About every six years, the tax appeals board directs that counties use construction cost figures for a specific year in appraising. (Land always is appraised at the current year's values.)

For example, the board directed last December that counties about to make re-appraisals use 1956 construction figures. But some counties already were in the process of 1950 figures called for in the board's previous order.

They were allowed to continue with the 1950 basis because a change in mid-stream would have been prohibitively costly. But as a result, neighboring counties sometimes are using a different base.

If the value put on identical properties in neighboring counties is $4,000 in one case, and $5,000 in another, Becker's men study the figures obtained regularly by checking buying-selling prices of property in the counties.

They may decide to bring the $4,000 appraisal up. To do so, they must increase the percentage 25 per cent ($1,000 goes into $4,000 four times). Thus, if the $4,000 represented 45 per cent of the so-called true value of the property, the percentage would go up to 70 per cent.

However—and this leads to the second problem area—Becker says there isn't a county in Ohio where property is valued at 50 per cent of its true cost, because of rising prices. And of course it costs more to build or buy real estate in some parts of Ohio than in others.

Finally, some auditors drag their feet because they're afraid the higher appraisals which may result will cost them votes, state officials say.

"So far as I know, no one has devised a foolproof method of appraising real property . . . But we have contacted thousands of taxpayers throughout the state and find that in communities where taxpayers have been furnished accurate and reliable information instead of ommissions, half-truths and mis-statements, they will approve and support fair and equitable appraisals of real property."

Since 1911, Ohio has had a tax limitation of 10 mills (15 for a brief period) on the dollar, although of course voter-approved school levies usually increase the total levy.

When the first equalization was made in 1911, there were such discrepancies that Paulding County, for example, was raised 379 per cent. The next equalization was in 1926, and the last in 1952.

In 1957, the Legislature passed a law giving the State Board of tax Appeals authority to determine property values for tax purposes, but this was repealed in the last session.

The tubers of arrowhead, a plant which has leaves shaped like arrowheads, are excellent potato substitutes. The starchy roots are not too mealy. The arrowhead grows in swampy areas in the U. S.

OGILVIE'S

Baby Needs Peace, Calm

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M.D.

"Is it better to pick him up when he cries?"

These and thousands of other questions make some young inexperienced mothers so jittery they are like the June bug in the old fable.

The young "intellectual" June bug lay on his back and tried to think how to turn over. He carefully moved one leg, then another' then stretched a third; finally he was beating the air with all six legs and getting nowhere. An old Grandpa June bug came along and said:

Many a young mother needs to stop worrying about the damage she might do her baby if she doesn't do everything exactly right — right being what some expert has said was right.

THERE ISN'T one right way to care for a baby, while all other ways are wrong. In general the very best way for you to care for your baby is the way that makes you feel comfortable and at ease. A baby thrives on peace, contentment and a sense of being loved. How you accomplish this doesn't make any difference.

The atmosphere in which a baby grows is by far the most important part of child care.

If you are a friendly, reasonably happy woman, and your marriage is working along smoothly, you are completely safe in just following your instincts in the way you handle your baby.

On the other hand, if you're a grumpy, whiney, dissatisfied young woman convinced you're married to the wrong man, then the experts on child care can't tell you much either.

If that's the kind of person you are, your baby is going to grow up like you regardless of just how you care for him. A baby knows what kind of a person you are. If you are cross and nervous he feels it in the tense feeling of your arms and the crack in your voice.

You transfer your feelings to him. When you are on edge, he gets on edge too and he cries and fusses. A crying baby doesn't soothe a nervous mother!

TAKE YOURSELF in hand, before you have children if you can. Try to understand what you are like and come to some sort of terms between what you are and what you'd like to be. When you are at peace with yourself, then you will make a good mother.

The details of child care seldom do much of anything about the basic climate of the home. However there is no doubt that these people who call themselves experts on child care do have a few pointers it's worth finding out about.

Experts can give you lots of short cuts — easy ways to do thing. Experts can tell you reasons why your baby does as he does—what to expect, next week and next month and next year. Experts can certainly help you and they can make the whole job of bringing up a child easier and more interesting.

By going through all the most approved motions of scientific baby care you will never persuade a baby his mother is anything different from what she really is.

Here Are Things To Do If Johnny Has A Cold

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M.D.
AP Newsfeatures

Colds are everybody's problem. The person who seldom has a cold is a rare and lucky person and I doubt if anyone exists (except perhaps a young baby) who has never had a cold.

Medical science so far has been unable to find either a quick way of recovering from a cold or a sure way of preventing colds. However in spite of not knowing the answers to these most important questions we do know a good deal about this troublesome pest, the common cold.

There is a tremendous amount of research going on both in this country and abroad right now. The U.S. Army and the Public Health Service have extensive programs under way and in addition a Common Cold Foundation has been organized to further and coordinate all the research. But until some one comes up with the important answers we are going to have to muddle along as we have been doing for years.

CHILDREN have more colds than grown-ups. On the average grown-ups have between two and three colds a year. A pre-school child may have as many as seven or eight, a primary school child probably will have more than four or five, and an adolescent usually has no more than three or four.

Babies, especially first babies, have fewer colds than run-around children, but a baby living in a household with several older children has more colds than a baby who lives the isolated and sheltered life of the only child.

The prevalence of colds in children is just something we have to take at the present state of medical knowledge. We seem to build up a resistance to colds by just living — probably by being exposed over and over again during our young years.

Another thing we know about colds is that they occur more frequently in winter than in summer. This has more to do with the fact that people crowd together more in cold weather. We stay indoors more, keep windows closed and breathe each other's germs.

A rash of colds is pretty certain to break out when a group comes together and remains in close quarters. Soon after the beginning of school in the fall you can expect a lot of colds. It is often true, too, that right after the Christmas holidays there will be another sweep of colds through the classrooms.

As you get older you are better able to fight off the germs because slowly over the years you build up some immunity to the germ.

There are a thousand ways to treat a cold. Many, many people swear by some pat remedy. Mighty few of them do any good at all and some do positive harm.

The anti-histamine drugs had a great vogue a few years back but they have now fallen into disrepute. True, these drugs will dry up the annoying discharge from the nose, but they don't kill off the virus that causes the cold.

The truth is if you have a cold you are better off with a runny nose — its nature's way of getting rid of the infection. If you just dry up the nose, the germ is apt to find a pleasanter place to live and migrate down into the lungs and produce a more serious disease than just a cold.

When your child has a cold, put him to bed for a few days, let him breathe some steamy air—its very soothing. Let him eat and drink as he wants and keep him happy and don't dose him with a lot of useless medicine just because you think you should be doing something.

If your child runs a fever, call your doctor. There is probably something more wrong than a cold. There is little or no fever with a common cold.

Someday we hope we will have this problem licked, but in the meantime you and your children, I and my children will have to live with the common cold.

Father's Role Stressed

By The Associated Press

One weekend Chris came home with an assignment from school to write a composition about what he was going to be when he grew up.

Chris was 10. He had never seriously given the question of his future a passing thought. He hadn't the remotest idea what to write.

"Gee, Mom, I don't know how to do this," he said.

"Well, Chris," said Mom, "take a look at the grown-ups you know. Do any of them do anything you think you might like to do?"

Chris thought a while, then went out to play baseball. Next morning without any more talk he wrote his composition.

HIS FATHER, Chris wrote, went off to an office but he made a lot of speeches. Chris didn't want to do that. Uncle Jack was an engineer and loved to tinker with machinery—Chris didn't like that.

Uncle Joe was a pianist and Chris surely didn't like the piano enough to spend his life at it. Doctor Henry made you well when you got sick. This appealed a little more to Chris, perhaps because he could understand it better. He said he possibly might be a doctor when he grew up, but he wasn't very sure. The one thing he knew was, that when he grew up he was going to be a father and have a lot of children.

This is an interesting point of view for a 10-year-old. All the people with whom Chris identified himself were men and the one really strong example he had before him was his own father and he wanted someday to grow up to be like him in the way he really understood — his fatherhood.

IT IS VERY desirable for a child to be able to identify with his parent of the same sex. This helps establish for a boy his masculinity. In this way he knows who he is and what he is and he matures into full masculine manhood.

In the kind of life many of us lead fathers sometimes see very little of their children. Father may leave in the morning before the youngsters are up and return at night after they are in bed.

That leaves only weekends, skimpy but enough, if used. This doesn't mean that father must spend all his free weekend time with the kids, but there should be enough of it so that the children have a real sense of his participation in their lives.

Girls as well as boys need a father. The world is made up of men and women and it is necessary that children understand their roles with reference to their sex.

HUMPTY DUMPTY. Doll, pillow or punching bag, it's fun for baby and easy to make from a standard pattern.

Children Pick Up Language Easily

AP Newsfeatures

The adult who learns a second language has trouble ever speaking it without some accent. Children on the other hand can acquire a new language easily and so well that they speak like a native.

This fact leads many people to think that the ideal time to start a second language is in the toddler stage when the first language is being learned.

This is likely to happen in families who speak a language at home different from the one used by the community in which they live.

Experts in the field of speech think that presenting a child just learning to talk with two ways of saying everything he would like to communicate slows the child down and in the long run may interfere with his full use of any language.

Let a child, these experts agree, learn one language well enough so that he has a real concept of the value of communications before you confuse him with another way of getting his ideas across.

In early babyhood a child experiments with all manner of sounds — all the sounds a human being is capable of making, many more than he will ever use for any single language.

Before he is a year old a baby can say expertly a German "ich" or a French "tu" as well as the difficult English "th." But when this child begins to copy the speech about him he stops practicing those sounds which do not occur in his own language.

After a while (10 years or so) he finds it hard to recapture his baby ability to make his tongue and lips and throat go the way they did during his early experiments. But most anytime below the age of 10 a child can make any sounds he hears with extraordinary accuracy.

Language, however, is far more than the ability to make sounds. Language is really a very complicated thing when you come to think about it. We use sounds not only to mean things, but to mean how we feel and what we think and what we do. And we have all sorts of subtle shades of meaning that we get across to others not only by the sounds themselves but by the way we combine them.

This is no small job for a youngster to master. It would be bad enough if all a child needed in learning two languages at the same time was to learn two names for everything. But it's much more complicated than that. Syntax and sentence structure are never the same in any two languages.

As a very simple example, an English - speaking baby might say: "He throws it." But in French he must change the words around: "He it throws" (Il la jete). Or in German he would have to say, "The ball throws he" (Den ball kastet er).

If Bobby has to do this, it's small wonder that he throws the ball a long time before he talks about it. Talking is so difficult that he doesn't bother with it — in any language.

If yours is a two - language home, try to teach your child one language only until he is about 5 years old. For a child who talks early and well you might possibly reduce this to 3 years but not below this.

Then if you have the chance, teach him a second language. Let him learn it through his ears as he did the first one and he will grow up speaking both languages fluently and well. He will have the desire and ability to communicate firmly established before he discovers that it can be done in a completely different way.

New Dresses Are Pleasing

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

The sure way to the heart of any girl, big or little, is to give her a new dress.

Little girls thrill to the joy of new finery from playpen age up. And along about this time of year all girls are thinking of summer. So what better time is there to start your sewing and whip up some gay new dresses for your favorite small glamor girl.

Select the pattern size by the child's chest measurements. Self-fabric is used for piping at waistline and for the four covered buttons down the back of the notched bolero, giving the outfit a custom look. It is recommended that buttonholes be stitched twice, using the buttonholer attachment to your sewing machine.

A nice finishing touch for this crisp, full-skirted little dress is to attach a frilly petticoat. The ruffling may be done in next to no time by using the ruffling attachment on your machine.

Veteran seamstresses advise making two or three dresses in different colors from the same pattern, saving time by using the assembly - line technique and producing a new spring wardrobe for a lucky little girl.

Food Disposal Advance Cited

CHICAGO — Many improvements have been made in electric food waste disposers in recent years.

Designs have been improved, costs for both purchase and installation have been reduced and simplicity of operation and ease of maintenance have been stepped up.

Today there is no longer any doubt that the electric food waste disposer is the answer to the problem of disposing of garbage from homes.

The chore of accumulating garbage in the sink, draining off excess moisture, possibly wrapping with paper before carrying to the storage can, maintaining the garbage can in sanitary condition and remembering to place it at the curb on collection days are all eliminated by simply turning on the cold water, flipping the switch and watching the table waste vanish down the drain.

Flies and odors associated with the street collection of garbage are eliminated when all homes in an area use garbage disposers, the Plumbing - Heating - Cooling Information Bureau points out.

As is the case with all water-connected appliances, proper installation under the supervision of an experienced plumbing contractor is necessary for the efficient performance of the unit. Plumbing contractors will be glad to offer suggestions on the selection of a food waste disposer to meet the requirements of a family.

Don't Gouge Child's Ears

AP Newsfeatures

Wax in the ears is as normal as saliva in the mouth. You certainly do not try to remove saliva from your child's mouth; on the other hand if the youngster drools and gets saliva all over his face you do clean it off.

The same is true of the wax in his ears. Don't try to dig it out of his ears, but when you can see yellowish wax at the edge of the ear canal, wash it away with a wash cloth.

If you dig down into the ear canal with a stick or a swab or a bobby pin, you may do a great deal of harm and you certainly won't do any good.

In the first place these various instruments may carry germs iinto the canal which will produce itching and burning and irritation. In the second place you cannot possibly get all the way into the canal and what you will do is pound the wax down against the drum making a hard mass that cannot flow to the outside by natural methods.

If you suspect that your child has wax deep down in his ears that doesn't come out by itself, by all means take him to your doctor. Do not try to remove it yourself.

The ear canal is lined with skin. Like skin elsewhere on the body this skin contains glands. These glands are of two different types. Wax is the combination of the secretions of these two glands.

One type of gland is the sebacious, which makes a thin oily substance. Over the open skin areas this material is spread out in a very thin film, but in the narrow confines of the ear canal this oil material condenses into a waxy consistency of varying degrees of hardness.

The other type of gland in the skin of the ear canal is a sweat gland, but a special kind of sweat gland found only in the hairy areas of the body.

Over the hairless parts of the body a watery sweat is secreted which helps keep the body cool. In the hairy areas the sweat is a milky substance, rich in fatty material and with a distinct odor.

In the ear canal this sweat has a definite function. Its watery nature softens the waxy substance secreted by the sebaceous glands and makes the resulting material malleable enough to conform to the shape of the canal.

WAX MOVES from the ear drum toward the outside, partlly by its own pressure since new wax is constantly being formed and partly by the massaging action of the jaws.

Wax keeps the ears clean by trapping any foreign matter that gets into the ear, and preventing it from penetrating into the deep recesses of the canal. The wax is a very efficient device of nature for keeping the delicate structures of the innter ear in good working order.

Occasionally things do go wrong with the manufacture of wax. One or the other of the two necessary secretions may become too profuse or too skimpy. Sometimes the wax becomes so hard it cannot flow to the outside.

When this happens trouble begins. The canal may become irritated, fungus infections get a chance to grow and pain and itching makes the patient scratch, which in turn can introduce more germs with sometimes the development of a nasty eczema.

If wax is hard and tight against the drum it interferes with hearing or may even cause a sensation of ringing in the ears.

If wax is impacted in only one ear it may give the patient the sensation of dizziness, since equal pressure in the two ears is necessary for our sense of equilibrium.

Judge Says No Law Against Being Foolish

COLUMBUS, Ohio — There is no law in Ohio against being foolish, Judge Alan Schwarzwalder decided in dismissing charges against a five-man musical combo.

The five were arrested during a long-winded musical session at a tavern and charged with staging an endurance contest, which is against Ohio law.

But the Municipal Court judge ruled the combo was merely seeking publictiy and dismissed the charge, adding that he only considered the combo's stunt "a very foolish thing to do."

Friendly Door Means Safety

She wanted that candy bar — but something in the back of her mind reminded her that mommy had told her never to talk to strangers — and never to take anything offered by them.

She said nothing and began to walk faster. The car began to follow her.

Panicky, she dropped the doll she had been carrying and looked around with a frightened, almost tearful glance.

Then she glimpsed a sign. Though she couldn't read very well, she knew what the big hand on the sign meant. Here was a place to which she could run if she were in trouble. Quickly she ran up the sidewalk to the door. A woman let her in.

The woman was a member of the Block Safety Plan of Hickorydale School's PTA. She and 51 other mothers joined the plan to offer their children help and protection in a time of trouble.

Mrs. Joseph Hertzberg, largely responsible for starting the program, says:

"We want to let children know they have a friend. They can go to any of these homes if they get hurt or are frightened by strangers or animals.

Law enforcement and social agency workers agree that such a plan would have advantages if instituted throughout the city.

Only Child Finds Teen Road Rough

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures

"Parents seem to expect more of an only child than they should," writes a 16-year-old Midwestern girl who says that up until now she has been "performing like a trained seal for them."

She doesn't object to their affection and interest, but she thinks that when there is just one child at home, the parent has nothing else to do but worry about her.

"Why can't my mother let me enjoy friendships, without trying to control my every move?" she asks. "She hovers over me when boys are around and acts like I'm not appreciated if the boy doesn't fall all over me.

"My father sometimes sits in his car, watching from a distance to make sure that the boy leaves a dance with me. Then he hurries home and tries to get the car in the garage before we drive up to the house. This really puts a crimp in an evening because the boys always know what he is up to.

"My parents take offense if I am not invited to every party that goes on in town. They can't imagine anyone not loving me as they do, I guess.

"What bothers me is the prospect of this sort of thing continuing. They don't want me to date steady, so I don't, just to please them. I must go on every vacation with them. I must go to visit friends on Sunday when they go visiting. I must go to my grandmother's, if they decide it is a good idea. My mother will not let me buy a hat, dress or shoes unless she is along to help me select them. Lately I have gotten the feeling that my family keeps me in a cage, and that even when they let me out briefly, they are hovering over it awaiting my return.

"I don't want to hurt their feeling, but they are making me very nervous by their attitude. Should I tell them?"

Your problem is a double one at the moment, of course, and it may very well ease up later.

Parents are likely to be overly protective toward a girl in her early teens, especially when she begins to date. They worry about her, and they should, until she displays signs of maturity, and being able to cope with situations that are new to her because of her age.

They love you, and want other people to love you, and in that feeling they are not different from parents who have more children.

The difference is that the mother of a large family cannot worry about small details such as whether her offspring are popular enough to go to every party in town.

Boys will never resent your father's indulgence toward you, and a good type will respect your father for his protective instinct.

It is the way a boy who likes you should feel about you. The fact that it crimps his style as far as necking goes, does not enter into it. If you want to be cozy with him, invite him to your own living room.

Chances are your parents will let you sit up with him there, so that he may get all the sweet nothings off his chest. Your parents will be delighted to have you at home with your friend.

When you do go out with a boy they can trust, and get to know well, they probably will be less demanding about your presence every time they go visiting. Some parents do this because they want to show off their darling daughter.

THREE OF A KIND. Mrs. Marvin Swinford of Dayton, Ohio, uses production line techniques at feeding time for Amy, Bonnie and Caryl (A, B, C). Raising triplets doesn't take any special skill or knowledge," says Mrs. Swinford, who has two older children, "just patience."

Ohio Inventor Boasts Portable Landing Pad

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Ordinary rooftops, sheltered bays or rivers, and even swamps could become landing areas for helicopters or other vertical - landing aircraft through use of his portable landing pad, a Mansfield inventor claims.

Fred E. Lingfelter came up with the idea several years ago, applied for a patent in 1955 and now has the idea ready for presentation. The pad is inflated with air, helium or some similar gas and the idea is to distribute the aircraft's weight uniformly over the area.

Here Are Signs Of Illness To Watch For In An Infant

AP Newsfeatures

A young mother with her first baby often worries that her baby is sick.

She doesn't know what a sick baby looks like so she fears that each little sneeze or cough means her baby is sick. After she has had several children, she learns the signs of sickness. But in those early months she may be needlessly worried.

A mother needs to know what signs are serious and call for the doctor's immediate attention and what signs are not so serious and can safely be treated at home and then the doctor called if necessary.

A baby changes rapidly as he grows and develops, but certain kinds of changes may mean that he is sick.

The sudden changes are of two kinds. First, those acute things that anyone can recognize as signs of illness, a convulsion, a hemorrhage, a high fever.

Second, those vague changes which are first apparent to the mother who knows her baby better than anyone else. Has the baby been more irritable than usual, has he eaten as usual, or has he been more restless in his sleep?

Some signs of illness may be the beginning of serious disease and should have the immediate attention of the doctor. The following are serious signs:

A sudden very high fever, especially if the baby seems tense, jittery and jumpy. He may be on the verge of a convulsion.

Hoarseness which developed suddenly, especially if there is also a hard barky cough.

Blood in the stool (not just a drop but a large amount)

If your baby shows any of these signs, put him to bed in a quiet place and phone your doctor as soon as possible regardless of the hours. Your doctor will tell you what to do immediately and make arrangements to see your child.

When your baby shows any of these serious signs of trouble there isn't much doubt in your mind that you need the doctor, but there are a host of less serious ailments that may leave you in doubt.

The following may indicate illness but they are not emergencies: irritability or restlessness, loss of appetite, vomiting, diarrhea, constipation, pain, running nose, cough, rash, fever, inability to move part of his body.

If your baby shows any of these signs take his temperature. If it is as high as 104 or 105, consider it an emergency and call your doctor.

If the temperature is from 101 to 103, call your doctor as soon as convenient, but not in the middle of the night.

If the baby's temperature is not above 101, put him to bed and watch him for awhile. It may be that you know of some cause for his apparent ill health, such as undue excitement or fatigue. All he may need is rest and quiet and he will be all right. If he doesn't show some improvement in a day, get in touch with your doctor.

Too Much Eating; Bears Put On Diet

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The trouble with Petie, 395 pounds, and Eleanor, 400 pounds, is that they substituted eating for activity, says Dr. Werner Heuschele, zoo veterinarian.

"They weren't unlike a lot of people in that respect," he says.

"There was little excitement in their lives," explains Dr. Heuschele, "so they ate too much and got fat."

He took them out of the display grotto, put them in cages away from the public and started a reducing diet. The aim is to trim 100 pounds from each.

Daily Airings Are Good But Are Not A 'Must'

AP Newsfeatures

It's nice to be outdoors on beautiful days and, if you can find the time, take your baby for a walk.

But don't feel that the world will collapse or your child will suffer terrible harm if you don't get him out. You can be just as good a mother indoors as out.

There is a common feeling that babies become pale when they stay indoors too long.

This is only a superstition. The healthy rosy color we like to see comes from good general health and good nourishing food. Of course, brisk cold weather brings color to the cheeks, but cold weather doesn't make the red blood.

There is also a feeling that fresh air increases the appetite. Perhaps, it does a little. If anyone, baby or grownup, is out in the cold he needs a bit more food to make the extra heat needed to keep his body at an even temperature. But this does not mean he is any healthier because he has eaten and used up a few more calories of food.

In very cold weather little children are so bundled up to go outdoors they cannot move around as vigorously as they can indoors with less clothes on.

Sunshine is another reason for getting outdoors. Surely it's nice and it's pleasant to get out into the warm sun, but it isn't so important that you must break your neck to get outdoors.

Time was when sunshine was more important for babies than it is today. In years gone by babies who never received sunshine developed rickets and their bones did not grow strong and straight.

However, these days we know that sunshine — that is, the ultra-violet rays of the sun — change a substance normally present in the skin into vitamin D which then circulates around the baby's body and keeps his bones in good condition.

Nowadays we know how to give vitamin D to babies by mouth so it is no longer necessary for them to get this vitamin only from sunshine. There is not a great deal of ultra-violet light in wintertime suunshine anyway.

Going outdoors is pleasant and fun. Think of it this way. Do it just as often as you can manage because you will enjoy it. But when the weather is bad, whether it's too hot or too cold or too windy or just not very good, don't feel guilty if you stay at home.

Sometimes a young mother has so much to do inside her house that she cannot seem to squeeze in the time to take her baby outdoors.

Once in a while maybe it's a good idea to let some of the housework go and relax in the sunshine. However, if an hour or two outdoors means mother is up until midnight getting her ironing done, there is not much relaxation to that!

How To Give Tot Right Start In Life

AP Newsfeatures

A baby begins learning attitudes —of trust or distrust—long before there is any conscious memory.

A baby first becomes aware of things outside himself by the way in which his needs are taken care of. If he is kept comfortable, if all his needs are met, he comes to think about the world as a safe dependable place — a place to be trusted.

However, if he must spend much of his early months yelling and asking someone to come "fix him" and when he does get "fixed" it's never quite enough or quite right, he learns that the world is a frustrating, threatening place, a place you cannot be sure of.

THIS EARLY learning of trust or distrust is a learning of feelings. It's quite different from training the body to perform a skill or the mind to remember a fact. And because this feeling-learning is purely emotional it becomes part of the very substance out of which the baby is made. The earlier in life a feeling is learned the harder it is to change it.

This doesn't mean that the feeling of trust or distrust acquired in early infancy cannot be modified in later years — it certainly can. However, the baby whose first emotional learning is one of trust has an easier time than one whose early learning needs to be changed later.

How do we go about giving our babies the feelings which will be of greatest service to them all their lives?

In the beginning, a baby is only fully awake when he is distressed and most often his distress is due to hunger. A young baby sometimes seems to be just one big mouth with a few arms and legs attached. Eating is the all-important activity.

But the sucking in of milk is not all there is to eating, the baby needs the sensation of being held, of feeling close to a warm human person. He needs to be fondled and rocked at the same time he is eating.

As the baby gets older he often wants the loving and the fondling during waking times when he is not hungry. When he asks for it, give it to him.

GOING through the motions of loving is not enough for a baby. A baby has an uncanny ability to know whether you mean it or not. If you are impatient, if you are irritated, if you are worried and distraught about almost anything your baby knows it and he will whimper and fret even in your arms.

You can often hide your feelings from a grown-up, but you cannot pretend with a baby. He knows by the feel of your arms and hands whether or not you are relaxed and comforting or whether you are in a hurry and find him a bother and a nuisance.

There isn't any one way that's right and all other ways are wrong in handling a baby. Babies are individuals and want different amounts of affection.

Parents, too, have thousands of ways of showing their love. Some parents are soft and tender, some are gruff and boisterous, some are sober and reserved. Genuine love shines through any manerisms.

It is also true that the best of parents do get tired and cross, and there is plenty in this hectic world of ours that is worrisome.

No baby is ever going to have all his needs taken care of all the time, and maybe it's just as well he doesn't.

But if he has more satisfying trusting experiences than the opposite, he will grow through infancy with enough basic trust in the world to build a likeable and satisfying personality for himself.

They Want To Own Land—Dead Or Alive

HONOLULU (AP) — Hawaiians want to own land — dead or alive.

This was Grover A. Godfrey's explanation for record sales on cemetery plots at his Hawaiian Memorial Park, which sold 32,600 sites in its first two years of exsistence.

Godfrey told a meeting of the National Assn. of Cemeteries there is a great desire to own land on this crowded island — even if the only way it can be acquired is for a grave.

Here Are Suggestions On Care Of Tot's Eyes

AP Newsfeatures

A newborn baby keeps his eyes shut most of the time, so it may be some days before you get a good look at them.

Immediately after birth the doctor will put a few drops of silver nitrate solution into each of the baby's eyes. This is to prevent infection which a baby might pick up during the process of birth.

All babies have bluish-gray eyes at birth. In some this color remains for life, but if the baby has inherited brown or dark eyes the pigment that makes the color will develop slowly.

The darker the color is destined to be the sooner you will notice the change. By the time the baby is three or four months old you can be fairly sure of the color of his eyes, though they may continue to darken for a year or more.

A baby's eyes are constantly bathed with tears even when he is not crying. These tears are nature's way of keeping the eyes clean. It is not necessary to put drops in the eyes of a healthy baby. While it's true the baby's tear ducts are in working order at the time of birth, your baby will not cry tears until he is a few weeks old.

Once in a while one or both of the baby's tear ducts will become plugged up and the tears do not flow down their normal path.

The tear duct starts from a little red lump in the corner of the eye near the nose. It leads down into the nose. This is the way the tears which are constantly flowing over the eye are lead off into the nose. (This is why your nose runs when you cry).

If the tear duct becomes partly clogged up the tears are not drained off as fast as they form, they back up into the eye and run down the cheek, (even when the baby is not crying).

A plugged tear duct is seldom serious and usually unplugs itself without treatment. However, you should speak to your doctor about it. He can often show you how to massage the baby's eyes to help break up any dried secretion that might be plugging the duct. Its best not to try this massage without being shown how to do it.

If the tear duct is badly plugged up the eye will not be properly cleaned by normal tears and it may become infected.

You will know if the eye is infected because the secretion from the eye will be thick and yellowish instead of clear water-like tears. Also the white of the eye may become red and inflamed. An eye infection, of course, should be immediately reported to your doctor.

You Should Set Limits For 2-Year-Old Child

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M.D.
AP Newsfeatures

A child of 2 is into everything. If you are going to live through it until he is 3, you had better set some limits.

But think about it ahead of time and plan what you are going to do.

If you don't plan, you are likely to become a screaming shrew, constantly dashing to your child with yells of "No!" "Stop!" "Don't!"

What are the child's needs and what are yours?

A 2-year-old learns by doing — the more he does the more he learns, and you really do want him to learn.

The limits you set should direct the child to use his boundless energy and curiousity to find out as much as possible about the world, and at the same time preserve a few of your material possessions for later years! He cannot be allowed to tear up your books, but he can have a pile of old magazines that he can do with as he likes, look at, pile up, tear freely.

If you possibly can, arrange a place where the child is free to do anything he wants to do, where you do not have to say "No." See to it that that place is well equipped with interesting things to do — interesting if you are 2 years old. Ideally there might be both an indoor play place and a well fenced backyard or outdoor place.

In the rest of the house, protect what you can. Put away your precious and expensive brick-a-brac, reduce the off-limits areas to a reasonable number and then be firm and consistent about what he cannot touch. He cannot play with the spigots on the gas stove, he cannot jump on the living room couch, he cannot pull the books off the shelves.

Don't try to give a 2 - year-old reasons for the restrictions. At this age you are the absolute authority. It is "No" because you say "No," but try to be a benevolent despot, not a tyrant. You must know why you say "No" even if you don't try to tell your reason to your young child.

And above all, be consistent. Your "No" must always be the same. Lack of consistency is one of the greatest causes of failure of discipline, and the consistency must be real to the child. If he mutn't touch the coffee pot because it may be hot, he had better never be allowed to touch it — even when it's not hot.

If your child has ample opportunity to explore his world he will be able to take reasonable limitations without undo frustrations on his part.

A 2-year-old is seldom interested in anything for very long at a time. You can often divert his interest from a forbidden to a permitted object before a tantrum develops.

A 2-year-old often needs protection against himself. He cannot control his own impulses and desires and he needs you to step in and stop him from hurting some person or some pet.

A young child who feels and understands that there are limits to what he is allowed to do feels much more secure and much safer than if he lives in a world without restrictions. He likes the knowledge that you protect him.

Try to make a reasonable world for your 2-year-old to explore. Be calm, consistent and always friendly. These are difficult things to do, but they are not impossible.

Figures Show Colorado Bigger Than Texas!

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) —Dr. Richard Beidlman, associate professor of zoology at Colorado College, says Texas isn't as big as Colorado and has these figures to prove it:

"By multiplying the average elevation of the respective states by the total square mile area of each, one finds that Colorado has 650 cubic miles to the piddling 425 cubic miles for Texas."

Better Try Again

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — This order went out over the police radio: "Please shoot rat which bit boy to see if he has rabies."

Throw-Away Bottles May Be Used For Milk

NEW YORK (AP) — Because of competition from metal, paper and plastics makers, the familiar glass milk bottle may soon be replaced by cheaper throwaway glass bottles similar to those used for beer and some other beverages, reports "Modern Packaging" magazine.

Glass container manufacturers, the magazine says, are intensifying research to overcome the inroads of other materials, which in the last five years have taken a 15 per cent bite of the milk container field.

The Bitter Battle At Supper Time

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M.D.
AP Newsfeatures

Supper time has been an especially bitter battle.

Tom wouldn't eat his carrots, Lola dawdled over her milk and Marie insisted she couldn't chew the meat. Mother had made a beautiful lemon meringue pie for dessert, but none of the children got a bite of it because of the long-established rule that they must finish their plates before they could have dessert. Neither Dad nor Mother could enjoy pie in the presence of three varieties of tantrum.

Eventually the Anderson household quieted down and two fagged out parents met each other in the living room.

"Peg," said Harry, "this awful rowing about what the kids eat has got to stop. Why don't you just let them eat anything they want?"

"But they have to be properly nourished."

"Yes, I know, but I read about an experiment where kids were allowed to choose their own diets and they all came out all right."

"But you know they would all have eaten pie and not much else tonight, if we'd let them.

"O.K., it was good pie."

Would it work? I'm afraid the answer is No.

THE EXPERIMENT Harry quoted did show that children could and would select good diets for themselves, but there were some things about that experiment that Harry didn't know.

The experiment was done by Dr. Clara Davis in an orthopedic hospital. A whole ward of youngsters, who were essentially healthy children but had to be in the hospital for long times because of broken bones and similar ailments, were given the opportunity to choose anything they wanted to eat from huge carts of food wheeled into the ward.

Careful recordds were kept and over a period of a week each child ate all the essential food substances he needed. Some of the daily diets, however, were certainly peculiar. One little fellow ate 14 bananas in a day and little else. Another child ate nothing bug eggs for several days.

The experiment showed that children even ate things they didn't like when their bodies needed them. A child put his finger into the salt, licked the salt off, made a wry face, shuddered at the taste, then went back for more.

Now comes the hitch in applying the results of the experiment to an ordinary home. On the food car there were no foods except what we call natural foods.

Everything was served as it grew in nature — cooked where cooking was essential, but no foods were refined, nothing was added to them, nothing edible was taken away. That means there were meats, fruits, vegetables, eggs, milk, whole grain cereals.

There was not any white sugar or cakes or cookies or pastries or jellies or jam made with refined sugar or refined white flour. There was molasses and honey for sweets.

WHAT THIS experiment shows is that the human child like every other animal species can select an adequate diet from natural sources. Nobody gives a course in nutrition to wild animals and yet they manage to eat what they need. The same is more or less true of man in primitive societies.

But in our society we have learned to do all sorts of things to foods. We make foods which we think taste and look better than the natural ones. Some foods we change so they will keep better and we can transport and store them more easily.

In "improving" our foods we also have destroyed some of their nutritive value. Whole grain eaten as is, or ground into cereal or flour is a nutritious food.

But pure white wheat flour has had removed from it the germ of the wheat and the outside covering of the grain. Most of the vitamines and minerals of the original grain have been removed.

When we "educate" our taste to prefer refined wheat flour to the whole ground grain then we have altered our natural instincts and must learn from nutrition experts what to eat along with our white bread to make up for what we have removed from the original grain.

The same thing is true of white sugar. Everything has been refined away until we have nothing left but calories.

Almost all children love the foods we make out of sugar and refined flour-food which contains lots of calories but very little in the way of vitamins, minerals or proteins.

As soon as a child (or adult for that matter) has eaten all the calories he needs he is no longer hungry and we say his appetite has been satisfied.

OSU Fraternities Hit Discriminatory Clauses

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Presidents of 55 fraternities at Ohio State University are backing a move to erase discriminatory clauses from fraternity constitutions. Clauses in about 10 per cent of the national constitutions represented forbid membership to certain races and religions.

"The fraternities have evidenced by the passing of the resolution their good faith for a solution to this problem," said George Caronis, assistant dean of men.

The Teething Baby Needs To Chew

AP Newsfeatures

"But doctor, he won't swallow, he just holds it in his mouth. Yesterday after Andy's nap I found an old water - logged prune skin in his mouth. It was hours since he had lunch."

Andy was about 2½. What he wanted in the way of food was completely smooth material he could swallow without any chewing at all. Food that couldn't go down whole Andy either spit out or held in his mouth like the prune skin.

To avoid chewing troubles we must go back a way and understand how this eating business develops.

—:—

But as time passes a baby wants to help feed himself, he's growing up. He doesn't any longer want to lie back and suck what gets close enough to grab with his mouth.

He wants to use those hands of his to get food to his mouth. You see him trying to hold his bottle, grabbing for the spoon — he is not very good at it yet, but he's trying.

Somewhere around six or seven months your baby will begin working on his teeth. His gums are a bit tender, he drools a lot. And always everything he can grab hold of goes to his mouth.

He bites and chews on anything movable within reach. His hands are constantly in his mouth and he chews on them. Sometimes the edge of his crib or playpen is a favorite chewing block.

A teething baby chews on everything. At the age when your baby is teething he has also grown up enough so that he can use his hands quite well. The stage of waving them about aimlessly has passed. Your baby can deliberately pick up things now and get them more or less where he wants them to go.

AT THIS stage your baby uses his hands to grab. He chews on whatever he puts into his mouth which is most everything — he chews like mad to help push his teeth through his gums.

Now is the time to let him know that food is to chew. It's amazing to see how this little creature chewing like mad is quite surprised when he discovers that something he has chewed tastes pretty good and seems to act like food.

It is during his teething period that a baby should be introduced to foods that need chewing. He is chewing anyway, so he will chew the food. It tastes good and he will swallow it.

This first food for chewing should go into the mouth by way of the baby's own fingers. If you try to put lumpy food in with a spoon the baby is confused.

Material from a spoon, to the baby's way of thinking at this stage, should be smooth. He knows how to manage, he'll push it back into his throat and swallow it. However, if the spoon fed food has a lump in it the baby doesn't know yet how to manage the lump and he is apt to spit it out. But if the first food to chew goes in by way of the fingers instead of a spoon the baby is not confused.

Start with a bone from which most of the meat has been removed. The baby can hold tight to the bone and gnaw away at it. Tiny pieces come off in his mouth, he is already chewing, the pieces taste good, and soon the baby is swallowing them.

From bones, your baby can graduate to pieces of dry toast or to one of the many teething biscuits now on the market. Before long he will be able to pick up small pieces between thumb and first finger. Dry cereal is excellent for this finger food.

Make sure that the food your baby gets into his mouth is either soft as it goes in, or that it softens quickly in saliva.

The baby who is started on foods to chew in the late part of the first year seldom has much in the way of chewing problems later.

Pair Obtains Unusual Music Player Pieces

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. (AP) — Anthony Longo and Joseph Knapp came across an 1892 music box at an odds-and-ends retail shop. They bought it — and then saw an advertisement for another similar item.

They bought it — and so on until now they have 35 different types of the music players ranging from a six-foot tall polyphon, made in Leipzig in 1899, to a wall painting-music box made in Paris in 1850.

"This is simple music," Longo explains, "and brings back memories of yesterday. We can sit back and listen to it for hours and not get tired."

Few disappointments can match the sharp regret of a child who is denied the benefits of a college training. Many times an ambitious and eligible child must resign himself to a lifetime at just a job. And things would have been different if his father had lived. And things would have been different if that father had backed his hopes for his child by a positive guarantee of their fulfillment.
